RIOTS MAY BE CURTAIN-RAISER

REP. RIVERS GETS DANDER UP . . .

McNamara's Money Ax Wielded On 149 Bases

Washington (AP)— Another 149 military bases at home and abroad will be closed, consolidated or substantially reduced, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced Monday. But he delayed until Wednesday formally identifying them.

An immediate protest came from Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, who said the action is a calculated risk that could prove costly in view of the Viet Nam fighting.

And Rep. William H. Bates of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the committee, said he is "extremely disappointed" that McNamara did not consult with Congress and hadn't "even advised us in advance."

Now Not Time

"It appears to me," Rivers said in a statement, "that the closing of these bases is being done purely for the sake of saving money. At a time when the war in Viet Nam is escalating with sudden. and in some respects, unexpected intensity, now is not the psychological time to close any of our defense installations."

But McNamara, announcing his order at a news conference, said the bases are "surplus to our needs" and the cutbacks "will be completed without decreasing military effectiveness or limiting our current and future activities."

He indicated outright closings will come to only a minority of the 149 installations affected. Most of them will be reduced in size or consolidated.

Near Replay

Some of McNamara's words were almost a replay of his announcement in November last year closing down 95 bases. Money will be saved—the new order—the strain on military manpower will be eased and the civilian workers affected will be offered other government jobs, McNamara said.

The secretary, anticipating some loud protests from members of Congress and communities involved, said, "It is painful to eliminate these bases no longer needed for military reasons, but it must be done."

The 149 bases added to 703 previous base closings and cutdowns ordered since March bring total savings to $1.5 billion a year.

Unless Serious Action Is Begun

. . . McCONE PANEL REPORTS

Los Angeles (AP) — The governor's McCone Commission said Monday that "so serious and so explosive" is the situation in the wake of summer Negro rioting here that "unless it is checked, the August riots may seem by comparison to be only a curtain-raiser for what could blow up one day in the future."

The commission, in a widely awaited 101-page report, called the rioting "an explosion—a formless, quite senseless, all but hopeless violent protest."

100 Days In Making

The report, 100 days in the making at a cost of $250,000, recommended "expensive and burdensome" programs to prevent a repetition of the six days' terror that left 34 persons dead and $40 million property damage.

Focus of the devastation was the community of Watts, eight miles south of downtown Los Angeles, where firebombing rioters burned two blocks of buildings. Ultimately, National Guardsmen occupied 46½ square miles of the city before order was restored.

Eight leading citizens headed by John McCone, former head of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Central Intelligence Agency, held 64 hearings and took statements from hundreds of persons. They said they found no single cause, but "sowing the winds" were:

—Not enough jobs, especially for untrained Negroes.

Magnifying Factors

Intensifying these problems, shared with seven Eastern cities wracked by Negro riots in 1964, the commission said, were:

—An exploding Negro population—up from 75,000 in 1940 to 650,000 in 1965. Many Negroes from Southern states, arriving with high hopes, have found frustration and disillusionment.

—"What may well be the least adequate network of public transportation in any major city in America."

—Local bickering over the handling of federal poverty projects which, when they did arrive, did not live up to advance billing.

Affronted By Repeal

"In addition, many Negroes here felt and were encouraged to feel that they had been affronted" by voters' 2-1 repeal in November 1964 of a state so-called fair housing act."

Besides the deaths and damage, the commission reported, the violence left 1,032 persons wounded and hurt and 3,952 arrested, "women as well as men, including over 500 youths under 18."

In the document, titled "Violence in the City—An End or a Beginning?" the commission reported:

—Evidence of "a deep and long-standing schism between a substantial portion of the Negro community and the police department."

—Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson "hesitated when he should have acted" on Parker's request for the National Guard to quell the riots.

Remedies

To remedy "the sickness in the center of our city," the commission recommended:

—"Cooperative programs for employment and training, participated in by the Negro community, governmental agencies, employers and organized labor.

—"A new and costly approach to educating the Negro child . . . an emergency program" including verbal and language classes for 3 and 4-year-olds. The commission said the average fifth-grade student in Watts and other disadvantaged areas scored a reading vocabulary ranking of 20—compared with an average 81 in advantaged areas—and apparently can't "make use of reading and writing for ordinary purposes in his daily life."

—Appointment of an "inspector general" in the police department, "under the authority of the chief of police but outside the chain of command," to investigate citizen complaints.

—"The law enforcement agencies place greater emphasis on their responsibilities for crime prevention as an essential element of the law enforcement task," and "that they institute improved means for handling citizen complaint and community relationships."

—Strengthening the board of commissioners.

Rhetorical Question

The commission, asked by Gov. Edmund G. Brown to investigate causes of the riots and recommend means of preventing a repetition, asked in its report:

"What can be done to prevent a recurrence of the nightmare of August? It stands to reason that what we and other citizens have been doing, costly as it all has been, is not enough.

"Improving the conditions of Negro life will demand adjustments on a scale unknown to any great society.

"The programs that we are recommending will be expensive and burdensome.

All Affected

"And the burden, along with the expense, will fall on all segments of our society—on the public and private sectors, on industry and labor, on company presidents and hourly employes and, most indispensably, upon the members and leaders of the Negro community.

"For unless the disadvantaged are resolved to help themselves, whatever else is done by others is bound to fail.

"The consequences of inaction, indifference and inadequacy, we can all be sure now, would be far costlier in the long run than the cost of correction."

Two Nike Sites Near Lincoln To Be Closed

Washington (AP)—The Defense Department notified members of Congress Monday it is shutting down 18 Nike Hercules batteries in seven states by next July 1. Included are two at Lincoln and one at Plattsmouth in Nebraska and one near Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The Army expects to close three Nike Hercules missile sites in Nebraska and one in nearby Iowa which were installed in connection with the Offutt and Lincoln Air Force Bases, Capitol Hill sources were told.

Two of the sites to be disposed of are in the Lincoln area, one having 162 acres, the other 155 acres. Another is at Plattsmouth on a 163 acre site while the fourth is in Pottawattamie County, near Council Bluffs. Personnel, all military, include 178 at each of the Plattsmouth and Pottawattamie sites, and 180 each at both of the Lincoln area sites.

Closing of the Plattsmouth and Pottawattamie County sites is expected to result in savings of $1,580,000 each and the two Lincoln sites $1,592,658 each annually.

Earlier, the Defense Department shut down 12 Atlas F missile sites in the Lincoln area. The Atlas is an intercontinental ballistics missile, an offensive weapon, while Nike is a defensive missile designed to destroy enemy aircraft

Voters Polled By Postcard; Parties Deny Association

By DON WALTON

A postcard poll is under way seeking to determine voter preferences for the U.S. Senate and governor and reaction to the state income tax law and a constitutional amendment to authorize public transportation for private and parochial school children.

Officials of both the Republican and Democratic Parties denied any association with the survey.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, whose name is prominent among the possible contenders listed for Senate and gubernatorial contests, said he is not financing the poll, but would be "interested" in its results.

The survey is being taken under the name of Public Opinion Research, Inc.

Return Address

The poll lists Democrats Carpenter and Phil Sorensen and Republicans Val Peterson and N. T. Tiemann in a gubernatorial free-for-all, requesting the voter to "mark one choice" from among the foursome.

The survey then requests the voter to make a choice in each of four possible contests: Carpenter vs. Peterson, Sorensen vs. Peterson, Carpenter vs Tiemann, and Sorensen vs. Tiemann.

Two possible contests for the U.S. Senate are listed, with the voter requested to make a choice between Republican Sen. Carl Curtis and Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison, and between Curtis and Carpenter.

No Write-In Space

Participants are requested to identify themselves as either a Republican or a Democrat. No spaces are provided for write-in candidates.

Questions on the two issues: "On constitutional amendment authorizing transportation for school children?" For or against "Would you vote to approve LB797 (income tax bill)?" Yes or no.

The cards suggest that "by answering this private poll, you will assist in accurately measuring public opinion on these important matters."

Lovell Conducts 'Space Striptease'

Space Center, Houston, Tex. (AP)—Pilot James Lovell flew through space in his underwear Monday—first U.S. astronaut to shed spacesuit protection. With the radio playing songs like "Fly Me to the Moon," Gemini 7 sped toward a world record 14-days in orbit

The astronauts saw a 31-foot Polaris missile, fired from near Cape Kennedy, Fla., streaking over some 3,000 miles. It was launched by the nuclear submarine Ben Franklin.

"We've got her and she's beautiful," Lovell said as they watched the rocket for three minutes "It's easy to track, we're right on it." Borman said.

At Cape Kennedy, workmen were 16 hours ahead readying the hunter spacecraft, Gemini 6, for its pursuit of Gemini 7 It may be launched as early as next Sunday or Monday to find the Gemini 7 in space and fly in formation with its sistership. The maneuvers set the stage for moon flight techniques.

At a Monday afternoon briefing, officials pointed out that they have in a sense decided to shoot Gemini 6 as soon as possible—and they will have to keep preparations as flexible as they can.

Odds are 50-50 or less that Gemini 6 will get off Sunday, officials said. The odds for Monday appear better.

The word from Gemini 7 on Lovell'd disrobing came from Borman. "Jim's all out of his suit and comfortable," he said over Australia shortly after 1 p.m. CST.

On his 30th orbit, Borman reported, "Jim's been out of his suit about a (revolution) now and he's very, very comfortable. I'm able to stay as comfortable as I was."

B58s, Pacific Dewline Going

Washington (AP) — The Air Force has notified members of Congress there will be a phaseout of the B58 bombers in the next few years.

It said a continuance of the B58 is neither operationally nor economically desirable and that by 1971, this plane will have seen active service for 11 years. This, it said, exceeds the maximum expected life span of the tactical plane

Further, it said major and expensive modifications would be needed to extend the useful life of the B58.

Washington (UPI)—Around-the-clock air and sea watches by a section of the Pacific Defense Early Warning (DEW) system will be eliminated and replaced by a secret detection system, it was learned Monday night

Sources said Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara will announce plans Wednesday to gradually eliminate the "contiguous barrier" section of the Pacific Dewline.

Holdup Suspect Nailed After Chase

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

A day-long search for a suspected holdup man ended abruptly Monday evening when a Lancaster County sheriff's deputy emptied his .44 magnum pistol into the man's speeding car, blowing out the tire and forcing it to stop.

Being held in the Lincoln city jail was ex-convict Alvin G. Konvalin, 45.

A car bearing the same description as Konvalin's escaped Douglas County sheriff's deputies earlier Monday in another high speed chase in which the engine of the deputies' car blew up as they were about to apprehend the driver

Konvalin is believed by authorities to be the man who held up the Lamplighter Motel at 72nd and Center in Omaha about 4:30 Monday morning, taking an estimated $350. The desk clerk at the motel, Eugene Taylor, said a holdup man wearing a nylon stocking over his face and carrying a shotgun threatened him with death if Taylor looked at the robber's face.

Lincoln police received a description of the man, his car and his license number. Acting on this, Capt. Robert Sawdon set up a stakeout at the man's home at 1302 Q.

Konvalin was spotted about 7:30 Monday evening at about 27th and Cornhusker by Detective Donald Kahler and Officer Martin Gardner. As the officers moved in to arrest the man Konvalin "threw his car into reverse" and fled.

"We could have shot him just easier than ever," Gardner said, "but Capt. Sawdon had given strict instructions not to shoot except in self defense."

Radio broadcasts by the police to the State Safety Patrol brought six Safety Patrol cars and two Lancaster County sheriff's deputies into the chase.

While Konvalin raced down Interstate 80 at speeds of 100 miles an hour he threw out money and other things from his automobile, police said. Police Officer Ronald Flansburg, using a police dog, later located much of the missing money thrown out along the Interstate.

Sheriff's deputies Norman Monroe and Louis Harroun finally brought the man to a halt about a mile from the junction of Neb. 15 and Interstate 80 where the Safety Patrol had set up a roadblock. Konvalin put up no further resistance to arrest.

Police Chief Joseph T. Carroll said Konvalin will be questioned about a number of burglaries and other incidents in the Lincoln area Omaha authorities will question Konvalin Tuesday

Draft To Take Students Carrying Poor Grades

Students doing poorly in college are likely to be drafted along with childless married men next year, Nebraska Selective Service Director Guy N. Henninger said Monday.

He said the academic deferment of students will be reviewed after the first semester of study is completed in January.

"If college officials inform us that the students are not making their grades, then they will be placed on the eligible draft list," Henninger said.

"Since semester examinations are not until January, we will not know how many students will be affected. College officials will let us know which students are doing poorly."

Now, students doing well in college are placed in the deferred college student category. They generally remain there until they complete their college study.

"Students must carry 12 credit hours or they are eligible for the draft. These students are not placed in the deferred category," he said.

The decision to draft childless married men and students with poor grades was made after President Johnson ordered the national draft call doubled from 17,000 to 35,000 a month.

Henninger said everything in Nebraska hinges on how fast the available draft pool is exhausted. There are many single men who have passed induction physical and mental examinations. Most are 20 years or older.

255 For January

The January draft call for Nebraska is 255 men, Henninger said, and the total may go up in February and March.

In issuing the January call, Henninger estimated about 25% of those inducted will be childless married men. He said this could be lower, though.

Henninger said there is no thought of drafting 18-year-olds in Nebraska at this time, even though they are eligible at age 18 and six months.

McNamara's Money Ax Wielded On 149 Bases

Washington (AP)— Another 149 military bases at home and abroad will be closed, consolidated or substantially reduced, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced Monday. But he delayed until Wednesday formally identifying them.

An immediate protest came from Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, who said the action is a calculated risk that could prove costly in view of the Viet Nam fighting.

The 149 bases added to 703 previous base closings and cutdowns ordered since March bring total savings to $1.5 billion a year.

At Cape Kennedy, workmen were 16 hours ahead readying the hunter spacecraft, Gemini 6, for its pursuit of Gemini 7. It may be launched as early as next Sunday or Monday to find the Gemini 7 in space and fly in formation with its sistership. The maneuvers set the stage for moon flight techniques.

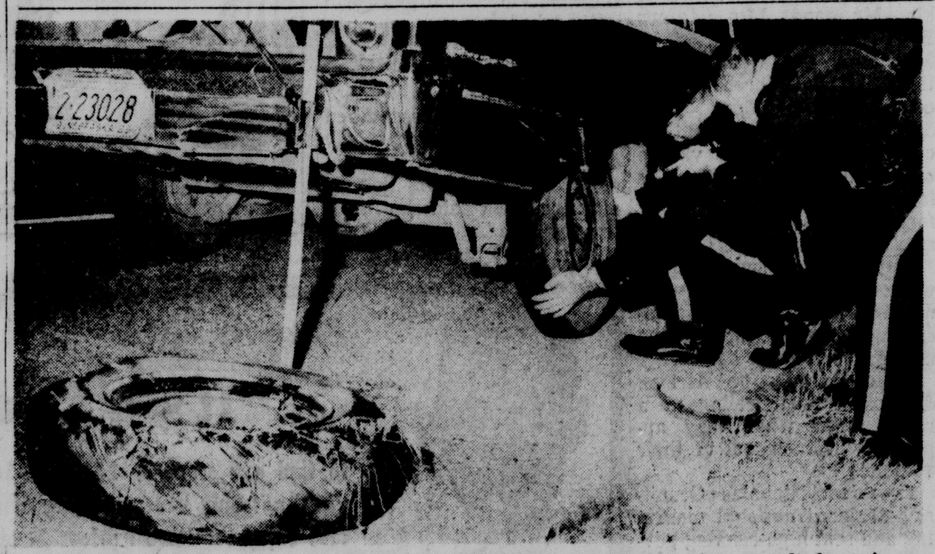

At a Monday afternoon briefing, officials pointed out that they have in a sense decided to shoot Gemini 6 as soon as possible—and they will have to keep preparations as flexible as they can.

Odds are 50-50 or less that Gemini 6 will get off Sunday, officials said. The odds for Monday appear better.

The word from Gemini 7 on Lovell'd disrobing came from Borman. "Jim's all out of his suit and comfortable," he said over Australia shortly after 1 p.m. CST.

On his 30th orbit, Borman reported, "Jim's been out of his suit about a (revolution) now and he's very, very comfortable. I'm able to stay as comfortable as I was."

The Gemini 7 astronauts sounded brisk and confident as they ticked off their medical reports to flight surgeons on the ground.

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

A day-long search for a suspected holdup man ended abruptly Monday evening when a Lancaster County sheriff's deputy emptied his .44 magnum pistol into the man's speeding car, blowing out the tire and forcing it to stop.

Being held in the Lincoln city jail was ex-convict Alvin G. Konvalin, 45.

A car bearing the same description as Konvalin's escaped Douglas County sheriff's deputies earlier Monday in another high speed chase in which the engine of the deputies' car blew up as they were about to apprehend the driver.

Konvalin is believed by authorities to be the man who held up the Lamplighter Motel at 72nd and Center in Omaha about 4:30 Monday morning, taking an estimated $350. The desk clerk at the motel, Eugene Taylor, said a holdup man wearing a nylon stocking over his face and carrying a shotgun threatened him with death if Taylor looked at the robber's face.

Lincoln police received a description of the man, his car and his license number. Acting on this, Capt. Robert Sawdon set up a stakeout at the man's home at 1302 Q.

Konvalin was spotted about 7:30 Monday evening at about 27th and Cornhusker by Detective Donald Kahler and Officer Martin Gardner. As the officers moved in to arrest the man Konvalin "threw his car into reverse" and fled.

"We could have shot him just easier than ever," Gardner said. "but Capt. Sawdon had given strict instructions not to shoot except in self defense."

Radio broadcasts by the police to the State Safety Patrol brought six Safety Patrol cars and two Lancaster County sheriff's deputies into the chase.

While Konvalin raced down Interstate 80 at speeds of 100 miles an hour he threw out money and other things from his automobile, police said. Police Officer Ronald Flansburg, using a police dog, later located much of the missing money thrown out along the Interstate.

Sheriff's deputies Norman Monroe and Louis Harroun finally brought the man to a halt about a mile from the junction of Neb. 15 and Interstate 80 where the Safety Patrol had set up a roadblock. Konvalin put up no further resistance to arrest.

Police Chief Joseph T. Carroll said Konvalin will be questioned about a number of burglaries and other incidents in the Lincoln area. Omaha authorities will question Konvalin Tuesday.

Draft To Take Students Carrying Poor Grades

Students doing poorly in college are likely to be drafted along with childless married men next year, Nebraska Selective Service Director Guy N. Henninger said Monday.

He said the academic deferment of students will be reviewed after the first semester of study is completed in January.

"If college officials inform us that the students are not making their grades, then they will be placed on the eligible draft list," Henninger said.

"Since semester examinations are not until January, we will not know how many students will be affected. College officials will let us know which students are doing poorly."

Now, students doing well in college are placed in the deferred college student category. They generally remain there until they complete their college study.

"Students must carry 12 credit hours or they are eligible for the draft. These students are not placed in the deferred category," he said.

The decision to draft childless married men and students with poor grades was made after President Johnson ordered the national draft call doubled from 17,000 to 35,000 a month.

Henninger said everything in Nebraska hinges on how fast the available draft pool is exhausted. There are many single men who have passed induction physical and mental examinations. Most are 20 years or older.

255 For January

The January draft call for Nebraska is 255 men, Henninger said, and the total may go up in February and March.

In issuing the January call, Henninger estimated about 25% of those inducted will be childless married men. He said this could be lower, though.

Henninger said there is no thought of drafting 18-year-olds in Nebraska at this time, even though they are eligible at age 18 and six months.

Interest Boost Makes Waves

New York (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board's boost in the basic price of money rippled across the economies of the nation and the world Monday in a widening circle of cost-price reactions.

Sunday night the reserve raised the discount interest rate for its member commercial banks from 4% to 4½%. It also boosted the ceiling from 4½% to 5½% on interest deposits of 30 days or more.

Rates Increase

—Banks increased the interest rates they charge, though there was no quick indication they intended to raise the level of rates they pay for deposits. The prime rate for loans generally was raised from 4½ to 5%.

—Long-simmering economic contention between President Johnson's administration and the independent Federal Reserve Board over what is good for the expanding economy broke into the open.

Outside Reaction

Outside the country there were these reactions:

—European central bankers hailed the increases as a long-overdue step toward reducing the U.S. balance of payments deficit. For several years U.S. dollars have been seeking higher-yielding foreign investments, constituting a major outflow component of the deficit.

—The Bank of Canada boosted that nation's basic bank rate from 4 to 4½% to offset possible switches of capital toward the United States.

—The Japanese government expressed concern the U.S. move would hamper the Japanese economy because of the heavy volume of finance and trade between the two.

—British economists said the U.S. action probably precluded any easing of credit in the hard-pressed British economy.

Credit-fired

The price of money is a basic cost in the credit-fired U.S. economy. Virtually every level of government, industry and private citizen pay interest. If they do not pay it directly for money borrowed, they pay it indirectly in the costs of goods and services.

The U.S. government alone currently is paying $966 million a month in interest on the federal debt.

The board's timing possibly was political, rather than economic, some observers speculated. The FRB vote was 4-3 in favor of the action.

C. Canby Balderston, a board member who intends to resign early in 1966, voted for the interest rate hike. The speculation contended that an appointee of President Johnson to replace Balderston would have voted the other way, thus swinging the vote.

LBJ, Martin Meet

President Johnson met at his Johnson City, Tex., ranch with FRB Chairman William McChesney Martin Monday. The meeting produced no change of attitude.

"He didn't address himself to changing my mind and I didn't address myself to changing his," Johnson said.

Martin said the Federal Reserve "wants to work as closely as possible with the President and the administration."

FDIC Awaits Developments On Rate Hike

Washington (AP)—The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. met Monday, but took no action on interest rates. The board usually follows Federal Reserve policy almost as a matter of routine.

In the past, the FDIC has followed the board's lead and prescribed similar regulations for federally insured state banks.

Meanwhile, another federal regulatory agency indicated that it was awaiting further developments. Chairman John E. Horne of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said the raising of the maximum permissible rate on time deposits raises "some serious questions" for saving and loan associations.

Both the FDIC and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board are considered more likely to respect the wishes of the President than the independent Federal Reserve Board.

1st Infantry Troopers Killed 231 Reds In Plantation Fight

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP) — Troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division killed 231 communists in the fierce weekend battle near the Michelin rubber plantation 40 miles northwest of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said Tuesday.

U.S. B52 bombers from Guam made two air strikes Tuesday, hitting targets in the central highlands and near the Cambodian border.

There was scattered ground fighting late Monday.

U.S. officials said the 1st Infantry division firmly withstood the Viet Cong assaults at the Michelin plantation battle while suffering moderate over-all casualties, but casualties in some battalion units were heavy.

On the central coast, a U.S. Marine amphibious operation north of Qui Nhon ended Monday with 26 Viet Cong confirmed killed, 5 captured and 12 suspects held, spokesmen said. Marine casualties were termed light.

The battle was the third big action in the Michelin plantation area in the past three weeks. The Viet Cong initiated the first two, both against the South Vietnamese 7th Regiment.

The enemy was beaten off in the first action, but overwhelmed the 7th Regiment in the second. On Sunday, they were waiting for the 1st Infantry Division as it moved up a jungle road. But they failed to overrun the infantry unit because of the immediacy of U.S. air support and the tenacity of the infantrymen themselves.

Hanoi Charged

Another diplomatic development from London concerned Laos, a troubled neighbor of South Viet Nam. The International Control Commission, formed to guard the peace in Indochina, accused North Viet Nam of carrying out military action against the neutralist government of Laos. The charge came in a majority report of the commission, made up of Canada, India and Poland. Communist Poland did not participate in the report.

Another Vietnamese neighbor — Cambodia — figured in the news from Peking. A Red Chinese broadcast said Peking had agreed to send military aid to Cambodia, a critic of the United States.

The broadcast did not detail the kind of aid to be given.

Soviet Craft Again Fails To Soft-Land

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Tuesday that its unmanned spaceship Luna 8 failed to make a soft landing on the moon.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reported that the announced attempt to make history's first soft moon landing failed in its final stage to function properly.

The announcement said that in all other stages but the touch-down the spaceship, launched 3½ days ago, worked without a flaw.

The time of the crash on the lunar surface was given as 12:51:30 a.m., Moscow time. The Jodrell Bank Observatory in England heard the signals from the spaceship stop two seconds later.

Tass implied that nonetheless the flight made a positive contribution to its program to achieve a soft landing on the moon — a feat that would bring a successful man-on-the-moon space project into the realm of the possible.

Luna 8 was the fourth Soviet attempt this year to make a soft landing on the moon, a difficult feat because of the lack of atmosphere which could be used for braking. The Soviet method of offsetting this is to fire retro-rockets as the spaceship approaches.

The United States, committed to landing a man on the moon by 1970, has plans for soft-landing instruments but has not yet begun launches.

Dalton Girl Hurt As 115 Die In Togo

Lome, Togo (UPI) — Two heavy trucks careened through a street pasked with snake-dancing villagers celebrating a tribal feast and killed 115 persons, including an American Peace Corpsman, police said Monday.

The hurtling truck also left more than 100 persons gravely injured, police said.

(The Peace Corps said four women volunteers were injured Kathleen Craig, 23, next of kin, Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Audrey Kragel Wiechman, 23, next of kin, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Kragel, Dalton, Neb.; Audrey A. Doubt, 27, next of kin, Mr. and Mrs. James Barum, Los Angeles, Calif. Miss Craig was in fair condition, the other three in good condition.)

Police said the accident occurred Sunday in the village of Soutouboua about 180 miles from Lome, capital of this former German colony on Africa's western slave coast.

More than a thousand men, women and children were dancing when a tractor-trailer truck crashed through the crowd, scattering bodies.

Police said both African drivers were traveling at a rapid speed when they apparently lost control of their vehicle.

Holy Office Shakeup Decreed; World Problems Paper OKd

Vatican City (AP) — Pope Paul VI Monday ordered an unprecedented reorganization of the Holy Office — once the Inquisition—and the Vatican Ecumenical Council ended three years of work by approving a unique church policy statement on modern problems.

In St. Peter's Basilica the Roman Catholic prelates gave a decisive vote of acceptance to the schema on modern problems, which includes a condemnation of nuclear warfare and a proposal for further studies on contraception.

Pope Paul VI, consulted by telephone, told council presiding officers he approved the document although an unusually large number of prelates—including many Americans—voted against its blanket denunciation of nuclear weapons.

483 Against

A vote of 2,111 to 251 approved the document as a whole. In a separate vote on the nuclear warfare section, the vote was 1,710 to 483. No other major council document has drawn so much opposition in a decisive vote.

The action ended the working sessions of the 3-year-old council. Final ceremonial gatherings will be held Tuesday and Wednesday.

—An apostolic constitution entitled "Mirificus Eventus" (Wondrous Event) set a five-month jubilee period.

—A motu proprio, or personal papal letter, gave a new statute for the Holy Office, changing its status and name, lifting most of its secrecy and ordering that defendants brought before it must be given the right of defense.

Most Sweeping

The changes for the Holy Office were the most sweeping for this congregation, one of 21 Vatican administrative agencies, since it was formed out of the Inquisition in 1542 during the century of the Protestant Reformation.

Its very name — Holy Office —had aroused bitter memories among non-Catholic Christians and even some Catholic theologians. Following council directives, Pope Paul changed it to "the Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith." Until Monday it had been the "Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office."

The dropping of the word "supreme" was not insignificant. It put the congregation on the same level as other Vatican congregations. In the past it had been first and foremost.

War Archives To Be Opened

Vatican City (AP) — The Vatican announced Monday night Pope Paul VI has allowed publication of all documents in the Vatican archives concerning World War II in response to requests from many nations.

The decision stemmed from controversy over the role of Pope Pius XII during the war.

Requests to make the documents available began to arrive at the Vatican in the wake of the turmoil stirred by the play "The Deputy" by Rolf Hochhuth of Germany that questions whether Pius XII did enough to avoid Nazi extermination of Jews.

Archbishop Antonio Samore, secretary for extraordinary affairs of the Vatican Secretariat, said publication is aimed at shedding "the just light" on Vatican activity during the war.

He said that often in historical publications on the war the Vatican either is not mentioned or is wrongly judged on the basis of incomplete documents.

In connection with the jubilee, the pontiff granted confessors special powers to absolve sinners of church censures and canonical penalties for adherence to heresy, reading books condemned by the Holy Office and joining associations opposed to the church.

Boys Town Will Mark 48th Year This Week

. . . HOME STARTED WITH FIVE 'LITTLE MEN'

Boys Town (UPI) — One-thousand "little men" celebrate a pretty special anniversary on Friday. It will be the 48th anniversary of the founding of famed Boys Town

It was 48 years ago that Msgr. Edward J. Flanagan gathered three boys from a juvenile court and two homeless newsboys and founded a boys home in a two-story brick building in Omaha.

Father Flanagan had to borrow $90 to pay the first month's rent on the building. But having worked with jobless men who sought work in Omaha after a drought hit the wheat fields, the father was used to walking a rough road.

Soon there were more boys and the home was not large enough. Father Flanagan moved his charges to a larger building in the city. But by 1921, Father Flanagan's family had grown to 150 boys and still another move was necessary

Searched For Site

For some time Father Flanigan had searched for a site outside of Omaha where the boys could be away from the hustle and bustle of city life and could have plenty of garden and recreation space.

In late 1921 he purchased a 160-acre farm 10 miles west of Omaha. On Oct. 15 of that year, he and the boys moved to the present site of Boys Town.

The first permanent structure was erected in 1922. By November of that year the family of boys had grown to 200.

Throughout the years more buildings were constructed. Included were a gymnasium, a high school, an office building, a laundry and like structures.

Boys Town was becoming just that—a town.

The name "Boys Town" was actually adopted on Sept 9, 1935, when the name of the home was changed from "overlook farm."

The following year the federal government built a post office building and Boys Town became an incorporated village by action of the Douglas County commissioners.

By that time, the home had become nationally famous. In 1938, a motion picture starring Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney was made about Boys Town.

Tracy won an Oscar for his role, an award he presented to Father Flanagan. Until his death, the father considered it one of his most cherished possessions.

In 1939, Boys Town continued to grow. Ground was broken for a dining hall and four apartment buildings. Work was also started on the beautiful Dowd Memorial Chapel—which now holds the tomb of Father Flanagan. The chapel was dedicated in 1940.

The home now had over 400 citizens. More expansion was needed. Among the new buildings erected were a high school, trade school, fieldhouse, gymnasium, auditorium, music hall, several cottages, an administration and welfare building, a visitors center and a public dining hall. A hospital and dental clinic followed.

All looked rosy for the boys home. Then tragedy struck.

After World War II, the U.S. government, at the request of Gen. Douglas McArthur, asked Father Flanagan to make a youth welfare mission to Japan and Korea to study the problems of homeless youth in war-torn countries and to recommend a program of care and rehabilitation. Father Flanagan made the trip in 1947.

The following year he was sent again to make a similar mission—this time to Austria and Germany.

Fatal Heart Attack

On May 15, 1948, while in Berlin, Father Flanagan died of a heart attack.

The world was saddened. The little men of Boys Town were without a father.

On Sept. 15, 1948, Msgr. Nicholas H. Wegner became the second "father" of Boys Town. Father Wegner took up the work of Father Flanagan and still fills the role.

Today Boys Town has grown to nearly 1,000 boys.

Longstreth Gives Santa Boost With Annual Mitten Making

Grand Island (AP) — Six years ago a crippling illness forced Jim Longstreth to quit his job, but hundreds of needy children can testify that he didn't quit working.

Calling up a skill he learned as a young man and has kept up with throughout his life, Jim Longstreth has been making mittens at the rate of at least 150 pairs a year and distributes them through the Lions Club and the Salvation Army each Christmas

"I had to do something to keep busy," Longstreth explained. "And I decided that if I was going to do something I might as well tackle a project that would be beneficial to the less fortunate children in the community. The first year I turned out 150 pairs of mittens and decided that was a good goal to strive for each year."

Longstreth's mittens aren't fancy but they are warm. The linings are usually made of parts of warm winter coats, the outside shell of gaberdine or twill of the type used in men's work trousers, and the cuffs from used sweaters.

Longstreth started making mittens for his family when he lived on a farm near Cairo because he was the one who was handy with a pair of scissors. He still uses the same patterns — nothing fancy but good for servicable mittens.

One-Room Home

His one-room home is fitted with his sewing machine, a dining room table which is converted into a cutting table as he carves the maximum number of mittens out of coats, trousers, and sweaters and materials furnished by the service organizations

In the house, Longstreth manages to get about without aid, but when he goes out he uses a pair of arm crutches, which he has fitted with elastic bands that fasten around his forearms, making it possible to free his hands without dropping the crutches. He also has devised ice creepers for them.

Patman Has Acid Words On Lenders' 'Disdainful Attitude'

Denver (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., said Monday nothing "has slowed the development of our rural sections more than the shortage of capital."

"Commercial banks and other lenders consistenly take a disdainful attitude towards loans for farm operations and other enterprises in rural areas," Patman said in an address prepared for the convention of the Midwest Electric Consumers Association.

"Some bankers believe that the higher the interest rates, the closer they are to heaven," Patman said.

The speech made no reference to the FRB's action in increasing interest rates.

Members of the FRB, the congressman said, "have almost a life or death say over the economy through their power to control interest rates and the supply of money."

Patman said, "The Federal Reserve is dominated by big bankers and has a built-in bias for tight money and high interest."

Patman said Congress should take steps "to put an end to Mr. Martin's power to thumb his nose at the President, the Congress and the American people."

"Congress should enact legislation now that would require full audits of the Federal Reserve System by the General Accounting Office and require that the system go to Congress for appropriations annually," he said.

Road Grader Upsets, Killing Foreman, 34

St. Paul (AP)—The foreman of a construction crew working on a spur of U.S. 281 into Cushing was killed Monday when a road grader overturned.

Harris was operating the grader on a hill when it overturned.

Woman Is Hurt As Car, Train Collide On 56th

A woman identified as Kirsten E. Wright, 30, suffered severe cuts early Tuesday morning when the car she was driving collided with a Rock Island Railroad train on No. 56th.

The conductor of the train said the car hit the first railroad car behind the engine. The auto was thrown about 50 feet into a deep gully and destroyed.

The woman was able to walk from the crash to the home of Galen Johnson, 3833 No. 56th, where help was summoned. She was listed tentatively in fair condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The conference will be held at 10:30 a.m. in Room 8424 of the Federal Building.

Patman Has Acid Words On Lenders' 'Disdainful Attitude'

Denver (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., said Monday nothing "has slowed the development of our rural sections more than the shortage of capital."

"Commercial banks and other lenders consistenly take a disdainful attitude towards loans for farm operations and other enterprises in rural areas," Patman said in an address prepared for the convention of the Midwest Electric Consumers Association.

"Some bankers believe that the higher the interest rates, the closer they are to heaven," Patman said.

The speech made no reference to the FRB's action in increasing interest rates.

Members of the FRB, the congressman said, "have almost a life or death say over the economy through their power to control interest rates and the supply of money."

Patman said, "The Federal Reserve is dominated by big bankers and has a built-in bias for tight money and high interest."

Patman said Congress should take steps "to put an end to Mr. Martin's power to thumb his nose at the President, the Congress and the American people."

"Congress should enact legislation now that would require full audits of the Federal Reserve System by the General Accounting Office and require that the system go to Congress for appropriations annually," he said.

U.S. Carrier Fire Kills Two Sailors

Manila (AP) — A three-hour fire aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk off Viet Nam Monday killed two sailors and forced the flooding of an ammunition magazine, the U.S. Navy announced.

The fire broke out in a machinery room just below the after hangar while the carrier was refueling from a banker alongside. As alarms sounded through both ships, they snapped connecting lines and the Kitty Hawk veered off to fight the fire.

The Navy said that in addition to the two dead, 48 sailors and a civilian were injured. Nine of the injured were flown to shore hospitals, while the rest were treated aboard the carrier.

The names of the two dead sailors were not released pending notification of next of kin.

Justice And Progress

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The trial of Duane Earl Pope has ended and the former model Kansas farm youth now is destined to become the 13th person to die in Nebraska's electric chair. The trial is one with which the average person will find little fault. It was conducted with the highest standards under the jurisdiction of Federal Court Judge Robert Van Pelt.

The prosecution prepared and carried out a strong case against Pope for his murder of three people while robbing the Farmers State Bank at Big Springs early last June. The defense could hardly have been improved upon with state appointment of two qualified and highly regarded attorneys to provide the accused with all his rights. The jury was considered by many to be an outstanding one in terms of people with a high level of intelligence. The decision made by the jury was a difficult one but the only one the jury could make, in the minds of many people.

Conduct Of Trial

It has been the feeling of this newspaper that, had the jury found in favor of the defense of insanity, conviction in any future case of murder would have been made most difficult. Nor is the case yet completely settled. Pope's defense attorneys will appeal the decision and it is highly doubtful that the defendant will die in the electric chair as now scheduled for March 3.

Appeals will at least delay the execution date, whatever their final results might be in the destiny of the convicted man. All of this leaves only one thing for contemplation and that is the law itself—the statute that exacts life as the maximum penalty for murder, commonly known as capital punishment.

As the law now exists, we have no argument with its application in the Pope case but people will wonder again in the freshness of this case whether the law should read the way it does. When it is all over and Pope has been put to death, if such proves to be the end of things, what service will have been performed for society, what benefit will have accrued to the rest of mankind? When the day of execution comes, will the feeling of people be one of satisfaction or one of nervous uncertainty? Some argue capital punishment as a deterrent to the crime of murder but we continue to have such crimes despite the penalty of death we exact in those circumstances. Surely, Pope was aware of the existence of capital punishment but it did not stop him from a cold-blooded murder of three innocent people.

To question the use of capital punishment is not to condone, excuse or defend in the slightest what Pope did. His was a crime that shocked the sensitivities of all people, that left a wake of hardship and suffering that will be long remembered. Nor does one need to predicate his questions of capital punishment upon any sympathy for the friends and family of the convicted killer. There is such sympathy, of course, but it can never serve to right the wrong that has been done. It can be no more prominent, surely, than thoughts of those who survive the victims of the Big Springs murder spree or of the intended fourth victim who will be paralyzed for the rest of his life. The friends and family of the convicted man simply represent more of the terrible anguish that this man has brought into the world.

Nor is capital punishment much of a religious question. The vast majority of religions contain no ban against capital punishment and consider the question a matter of state rather than church determination. The question is no more applicable, even, to the Pope case than any other case but the Pope case does make the question pertinent or prominent.

As members of society, each of us shares in the punishment that is meted out in the course of justice. Each of us, for instance, will bear some part of the responsibility in the execution of Duane Pope. Thus, the question of capital punishment is one that boils down to a personal moral principle.

The taking of a life today does nothing to change the fact that other lives might have been wrongfully taken to begin with. Capital punishment changes in no respect the nature and consequences of the crime for which it is applied. More than anything else, capital punishment is revenge and, as such, a characteristic not found in any other part of our standards of life and society. It is a characteristic, in fact, that is disapproved of in anything else that we do. It is a principle that, if applied in other areas of our life, would give us a social order of a far different nature than we now have.

A Matter Of Revenge

In such a social order we would never know the meaning of forgiveness, understanding or compassion. The Pope case, or any other murder case, is no argument against capital punishment but such cases do cause us to contemplate the meaning to ourselves of what we do when we take one life in payment for another. The argument is with the law and its service to the cause of justice, not the administration of our legal code.

Fight On Over Federal Aid

WASHINGTON — Jim Quigley, assistant secretary of HEW, who cut off that $32 million of federal money to the Chicago schools and promptly got reversed, is resigning from the Johnson administration, probably to run for governor of Pennsylvania. Jim is not sore at anyone and says LBJ did not get mad either.

But behind this lies a story which may be the key to the Negro vote in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and other big cities in 1968. Negro leaders, meeting with two Johnson cabinet members last week, very pointedly warned that the Negro vote was not hitched to the Democratic party and might well go Republican unless federal funds are stopped from going to segregated schools.

The issue was debated with considerable vigor in a closed-door meeting between two cabinet members and 17 white and Negro civil rights leaders last week in the office of Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach. Secretary of HEW John Gardner, who disperses federal funds to schools and hospitals, was also present.

Their sometimes acid debate was not supposed to leak out, but this column can report that the two cabinet members were adamant that the Chicago policy of advancing money to schools even without complete civil rights compliance would be continued. Later, if cities or states were found to disregard the law, the federal government would move to get its funds back.

Civil rights leaders told Katzenbach and Gardner that this would take months or even years. They claimed this would completely sabotage the intent of Congress in passing the civil rights act.

"Title 6 of the act is clear and explicit," said Marion Barry of SNCC. "You have the power to withhold funds. School districts will never come in line if you extend the money."

The argument got so heated that, at one point, mild-mannered Roy Wilkins, president of the powerful NAACP, warned: "The Democrats shouldn't get the idea they have the Negro vote sewed up forever. They haven't. Look what happened in New York, Cleveland and Louisville just one month ago."

Others attending the meeting included Joseph Rauh of the CIO industrial unions; Whitney Young of the Urban League; Andy Biemiller of the AFL-CIO; Harry Wattel, representing Martin Luther King; and George Wiley of CORE.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

The first snowfall of the season is as exciting as the first rainbow in the spring. It was a gray, dreary day as the first flakes began to fall last week. Surprisingly enough, I found myself looking forward to a white blanket of snow that muffles the countryside.

Gray is so much a part of December. Clouds are etched in gray. The hills that lie far away are gray, too. Sometimes a gray fog creeps over the land. Chimney smoke that curls through the air is gray and the ashes of a burnt-away log are of the same somber color.

In the city the sidewalks that criss-cross are gray. The stone garden seat that waits in the city park is gray and the sparrows that sit on the fountain are dingy and dull. The tree bark is of the same dull color.

Perhaps that is why we look forward to Santa Claus. His suit is a bright red . . . a vivid, lovely color that we need after seeing so much of muted grays.

Speaking of Santa Claus — and who isn't at this time of year? — I wonder if he has any qualms about getting his gifts delivered to the wrong addresses.

Wouldn't it be embarrassing if the scissors that were intended for Grandma went to one of the long-haired, guitar-strumming beatniks?

Suppose a set of aluminum cookware went to a young society matron who had never cooked a dinner in her life?

Suppose the newest record by The Dave Clark Five were left in an uptown apartment where the director of a symphony orchestra lived?

Imagine the surprised look on the face of a young bachelor who always plays golf with the boys, if he finds a book on the "American Revolution" in his stocking.

Yes, I would say that Santa has a very exacting job. Before he leaves the North Pole, he certainly has to have all his wits about him.

☆ ☆ ☆

Picturesque portraits I would like to frame for the keeping:

Jaybirds darting in and out of the pine trees . . .

Little boys with laughter as gay as a gurgling brook pointing to toy trains on the lower shelf . . .

Their father, saying, "Let's call Christmas shopping quits for today and come back when the kids are in school . . .

The clerk behind the counter, very disappointed because she has just lost a sale . . .

French Turn Outward

President Charles de Gaulle of France didn't do badly insofar as average elections are concerned, winning a good majority of votes in the country's Sunday presidential election. But nothing is average when De Gaulle is involved and as a consequence the austere president suffered a defeat while winning.

It was thought that De Gaulle would win more than 50 percent of the vote, thus avoiding any runoff. But he won only 43.9 percent of the vote and now must face the runner-up in a later contest.

He will probably win in the runoff but his victory already has been made much less than it might have been. It failed to show the massive French support for the policies promulgated by De Gaulle, policies founded in a dream of French grandeur that simply does not exist.

The fact is that such grandeur as De Gaulle dreamed of does not exist for any nation. France under De Gaulle has tried to do battle against the integration of the world that has come about as a result of social, economic, political and scientific changes that have taken place.

The French election, therefore, gives strength to that reasoning which sees the future of the West and of freedom in a closely knit alignment of nations with basically the same principles and objectives. The election is far from a final settlement of the differences that exist between France under De Gaulle and much of the rest of the world but it might be hoped that even the general himself might feel the winds of change that blow today on every continent.

Right And Justice And Juries

Editorially the Denver Post said, "Those of us who had pronounced justice dead in Alabama, were, it seems, incorrect and unjust."

The Post was referring to the fact that twice within 24 hours, all white Alabama juries returned guilty verdicts in civil rights cases. In Anniston, in the first verdict of its kind in recent Alabama history, Hubert Damon Strange was convicted of second degree murder in the slaying of a Negro. A day later, in Montgomery, three Ku Klux Klansmen were found guilty of conspiracy to kill a white civil rights worker. Earlier trials had found defendants not guilty and had freed them.

The Post editorial relates the common confusion between right and wrong, and trial by jury and the process of justice. Justice is a procedure and if it is adequately carried out it completes itself regardless of whether, in the public view, right has prevailed. Right and wrong are qualities that vary according to the society that measures them. In a homogenous society a system of justice generally results in what, in the consensus, is considered right. There are times when it falters but they are exceptions. But in a society of differing views what is right to one group is wrong to another.

Trial by jury is a separate matter. It marks the culmination of a long struggle against whimsical judgments representing the will of a superior and not the rights of the man on trial. It was a great victory for the common man when he won the right to be judged in his own community by his own kind of people. It lends a localized and humane touch and raises the stature of all individuals.

The three are separate institutions and should not be lumped together to the discredit of all of them.

The Federal Reserve

The Federal Reserve Board raised the bank discount rate from 4 to 4.5 percent.

Monday, as a result, the stock market went into temporary reverse. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks plunged 17.60 points the first half hour of trading. By early afternoon the fall had been reduced to 5.18.

The Federal Reserve explanation of its action was three parts, 1 to forestall inflationary threats, 2 to stabilize the outflow of gold and 3 to maintain the firms of the dollar internationally.

The first cause of the nervousness in the market was the national administration's opposition to the Federal Reserve move; its insistence that inflation is not a menace, coupled with its determination to push economic activity to new highs.

It must be remembered that the stock market is not business or industry. It is an investor field and market values rise and fall according to the balance between willing buyers and sellers. Its sudden gyration should not become infectious.

At the worst, at this stage there is only a difference of opinion between the national administration and the Federal Reserve Board over what is the more prudent thing to do. Only the future will determine that. But one thing is certain, the higher discount rate and the bulge in interest rates paid to time depositors in banks will tend to turn more money into bank deposits rather than into other segments of the economy and that might unbalance national industry. An investor might prefer to earn 5½ per cent by putting his surplus funds in banks than investing them in common stocks whose dividends are generally lower.

But as yet no one has been hurt.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Secretary Of State Attacked By Critics

WASHINGTON — Just five years ago a reserved, quiet mannered foundation president, whom not a single American in 10,000 had ever heard of, stepped from comfortable anonymity into the very eye of conflict and controversy. President-elect John F. Kennedy asked Dean Rusk to be secretary of State in the cabinet he was forming.

If Rusk ever regretted his decision he has given no sign of it. In the turmoil of an office that concentrates on the individual who occupies it and belted by the full force of every foreign policy crisis, he has continued to maintain a discreet personal reserve. Rusk, the man, is unfailingly subordinate to the dedicated public servant.

No office except the presidency is subject to such a glare of public interest. And the President, by reason of the eminence of his office, is often sheltered from the slings and the arrows of misfortune that assail the secretary of state.

One of the reasons Kennedy chose him was because he meant to be his own secretary of state and the President-elect knew this was Rusk's concept of the office. He was to be an instrument carrying out the policy of the chief executive. The president of the Rockefeller Foundation, as Rusk was, wrote in foreign affairs in 1960: "The President, with the aid of his secretary of state and the support of the Congress, supplies the leadership in our foreign relations."

Rusk has been scrupulous in interpreting that definition and this is one reason for the criticism directed at him publicly by historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., and privately by others in the Kennedy wing of the Democratic establishment. He fails to come up with initiatives. He is too neutral. No one knows where he really stands. This is the main thrust of the discontent with the secretary of state.

But a glance at presidential history shows that Rusk, with one conspicuous exception, is in the tradition of secretaries of state. Presidents have almost invariably asserted their consititutional right to direct foreign policy. And if the secretary didn't like the policy set by the President he could resign, as some have done, or he could adapt his views to those of his chief, as others have done.

The exception was John Foster Dulles. President Eisenhower, with his chain of office, delegated to Dulles the initiative. And Dulles, with his long background in foreign affairs, his ambition, his aggressive self-confidence, was only too eager to take it.

The office as a consequence was inflated with Dulles, a resourceful phrase-maker, a news-maker, keeping himself in the public eye. At the same time, in the view of critics of the Dulles era, he inflated the aims of American policy far beyond the means and the will to carry out those aims. Rusk's defenders believe that it is against this distortion of the office that he is compared and found wanting.

Sunday Opening

Kearney, Neb.

During the days of our pioneer founding fathers, they observed closely the command to remember the Sabbath Day and keep it holy. They attended church with a loaded gun on their shoulder to protect their families from hostile Indians as they made their way to the church each Lord's Day.

Today in several states, Sunday is an open day for big business. It is high time for God-fearing people to rise up in protest against open stores on Sunday. Let every minister and every church-going citizen and friend of the American way of early democracy rise up in protest strongly. May the Chambers of Commerce and state representatives declare the practice an insult to the memory of our Pilgrim forefathers as well as anti-patriotic and anti-fair-business.

The Knolls

Lincoln, Neb.

Your editorial of December 1 advocating a blanket annexation of areas outside the city requires comment. I do not know the specific position of other tracts of land, such as the industrial tract, but as the developer of The Knolls, I can speak with knowledge.

In the first place, you express agreement with Mayor Petersen's statement that "contiguous and urbanized (areas) which get city protection and utilities" should be annexed. As far as The Knolls is concerned, we do not receive any of these "services" from the city of Lincoln. We have our own rural fire protection district, our own rural school district, our own independent water system and sanitary improvement district. We have put in our own streets and lighting. We are served by Norris Public Power (REA) while the city of Lincoln is serviced by Consumers. And we have exceptionally fine police protection provided by the county sheriff. Why, then, should areas such as The Knolls be taxed by the city of Lincoln to help pay for services which we are either providing ourselves or obtaining from non-city sources?

You then go on to state that since persons in areas such as The Knolls work in Lincoln, these areas should be annexed. How interesting! I wasn't aware that factories, stores and other places of business were provided by the city government out of taxes. Which places of business did you have reference to? But then you go on to state that we ride on city streets and therefore should be annexed. Again, an interesting point, for there are many people who live in Beatrice, Seward, Waverly, Wahoo, Omaha, Ashland and the like who daily commute to work in Lincoln. Are you suggesting that these towns should likewise be annexed by the city? Every weekend, hundreds of Lincoln people come out and drive through The Knolls, on streets provided by people in The Knolls. By your logic, perhaps The Knolls should annex the city of Lincoln!

Using your own reasoning, there is no justification for annexing an area like The Knolls — except the one reason you won't come out and openly admit — the fact that the city could obtain additional tax revenues by doing so. This is what the entire matter comes down to, the fact that the city government is looking around for more people to tax and to control.

You state that The Knolls would not have been developed were it not for the city of Lincoln. In this there is some truth, for it was in order to get away from the restrictions and controls by the city government and to provide for our own services out of our own pockets without burdening the city of Lincoln with these costs that The Knolls was begun. In spite of this, you now say we should start paying taxes to the city of Lincoln even though we have been paying our own way for our own needs. Why?

As I said, your own reasoning destroys your argument, but I am sure you are resourceful enough to come up with some other excuse for justifying your parasitic designs.

Ambassadors

Omaha, Neb.

In modern times it has been a national phenomenon that our law-enforcement people are continuously exposed to ridicule and abuse. Every day policemen are put in the position of being "damned if they do and damned if they don't." With this in mind, we should all take the time to praise these dedicated people when the occasion arises.

Many of us in Omaha and from outstate Nebraska are regular and dedicated fans of the Nebraska football team. Never has the traffic coming into Lincoln on a Saturday been so great and never before has the traffic been handled with such dispatch, courtesy and efficiency demonstrated by the law officers. It is a pleasure to come to Lincoln and one of the highlights is the fact that not only do Lincoln police officers do a fine job for the town — they are also excellent ambassadors of good will. They are indeed a tribute to the profession.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"Well, speak up, Rollo."

Justice And Progress

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The trial of Duane Earl Pope has ended and the former model Kansas farm youth now is destined to become the 13th person to die in Nebraska's electric chair. The trial is one with which the average person will find little fault. It was conducted with the highest standards under the jurisdiction of Federal Court Judge Robert Van Pelt.

The prosecution prepared and carried out a strong case against Pope for his murder of three people while robbing the Farmers State Bank at Big Springs early last June. The defense could hardly have been improved upon with state appointment of two qualified and highly regarded attorneys to provide the accused with all his rights. The jury was considered by many to be an outstanding one in terms of people with a high level of intelligence. The decision made by the jury was a difficult one but the only one the jury could make, in the minds of many people.

Conduct Of Trial

It has been the feeling of this newspaper that, had the jury found in favor of the defense of insanity, conviction in any future case of murder would have been made most difficult. Nor is the case yet completely settled. Pope's defense attorneys will appeal the decision and it is highly doubtful that the defendant will die in the electric chair as now scheduled for March 3.

Appeals will at least delay the execution date, whatever their final results might be in the destiny of the convicted man. All of this leaves only one thing for contemplation and that is the law itself—the statute that exacts life as the maximum penalty for murder, commonly known as capital punishment.

As the law now exists, we have no argument with its application in the Pope case but people will wonder again in the freshness of this case whether the law should read the way it does. When it is all over and Pope has been put to death, if such proves to be the end of things, what service will have been performed for society, what benefit will have accrued to the rest of mankind? When the day of execution comes, will the feeling of people be one of satisfaction or one of nervous uncertainty? Some argue capital punishment as a deterrent to the crime of murder but we continue to have such crimes despite the penalty of death we exact in those circumstances. Surely, Pope was aware of the existence of capital punishment but it did not stop him from a cold-blooded murder of three innocent people.

To question the use of capital punishment is not to condone, excuse or defend in the slightest what Pope did. His was a crime that shocked the sensitivities of all people, that left a wake of hardship and suffering that will be long remembered. Nor does one need to predicate his questions of capital punishment upon any sympathy for the friends and family of the convicted killer. There is such sympathy, of course, but it can never serve to right the wrong that has been done. It can be no more prominent, surely, than thoughts of those who survive the victims of the Big Springs murder spree or of the intended fourth victim who will be paralyzed for the rest of his life. The friends and family of the convicted man simply represent more of the terrible anguish that this man has brought into the world.

Nor is capital punishment much of a religious question. The vast majority of religions contain no ban against capital punishment and consider the question a matter of state rather than church determination. The question is no more applicable, even, to the Pope case than any other case but the Pope case does make the question pertinent or prominent.

As members of society, each of us shares in the punishment that is meted out in the course of justice. Each of us, for instance, will bear some part of the responsibility in the execution of Duane Pope. Thus, the question of capital punishment is one that boils down to a personal moral principle.

A Matter Of Revenge

The taking of a life today does nothing to change the fact that other lives might have been wrongfully taken to begin with. Capital punishment changes in no respect the nature and consequences of the crime for which it is applied. More than anything else, capital punishment is revenge and, as such, a characteristic not found in any other part of our standards of life and society. It is a characteristic, in fact, that is disapproved of in anything else that we do. It is a principle that, if applied in other areas of our life, would give us a social order of a far different nature than we now have.

In such a social order we would never know the meaning of forgiveness, understanding or compassion. The Pope case, or any other murder case, is no argument against capital punishment but such cases do cause us to contemplate the meaning to ourselves of what we do when we take one life in payment for another. The argument is with the law and its service to the cause of justice, not the administration of our legal code.

DREW PEARSON

Fight On Over Federal Aid

WASHINGTON — Jim Quigley, assistant secretary of HEW, who cut off that $32 million of federal money to the Chicago schools and promptly got reversed, is resigning from the Johnson administration, probably to run for governor of Pennsylvania. Jim is not sore at anyone and says LBJ did not get mad either.

But behind this lies a story which may be the key to the Negro vote in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and other big cities in 1968. Negro leaders, meeting with two Johnson cabinet members last week, very pointedly warned that the Negro vote was not hitched to the Democratic party and might well go Republican unless federal funds are stopped from going to segregated schools.

The issue was debated with considerable vigor in a closed-door meeting between two cabinet members and 17 white and Negro civil rights leaders last week in the office of Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach. Secretary of HEW John Gardner, who disperses federal funds to schools and hospitals, was also present.

Their sometimes acid debate was not supposed to leak out, but this column can report that the two cabinet members were adamant that the Chicago policy of advancing money to schools even without complete civil rights compliance would be continued. Later, if cities or states were found to disregard the law, the federal government would move to get its funds back.

Civil rights leaders told Katzenbach and Gardner that this would take months or even years. They claimed this would completely sabotage the intent of Congress in passing the civil rights act.

"Title 6 of the act is clear and explicit," said Marion Barry of SNCC. "You have the power to withhold funds. School districts will never come in line if you extend the money."

The argument got so heated that, at one point, mild-mannered Roy Wilkins, president of the powerful NAACP, warned: "The Democrats shouldn't get the idea they have the Negro vote sewed up forever. They haven't. Look what happened in New York, Cleveland and Louisville just one month ago."

Others attending the meeting included Joseph Rauh of the CIO industrial unions; Whitney Young of the Urban League; Andy Biemiller of the AFL-CIO; Harry Wattel, representing Martin Luther King; and George Wiley of CORE.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

The first snowfall of the season is as exciting as the first rainbow in the spring. It was a gray, dreary day as the first flakes began to fall last week. Surprisingly enough, I found myself looking forward to a white blanket of snow that muffles the countryside.

Gray is so much a part of December. Clouds are etched in gray. The hills that lie far away are gray, too. Sometimes a gray fog creeps over the land. Chimney smoke that curls through the air is gray and the ashes of a burnt-away log are of the same somber color.

In the city the sidewalks that criss-cross are gray. The stone garden seat that waits in the city park is gray and the sparrows that sit on the fountain are dingy and dull. The tree bark is of the same dull color.

Perhaps that is why we look forward to Santa Claus. His suit is a bright red . . . a vivid, lovely color that we need after seeing so much of muted grays.

Speaking of Santa Claus — and who isn't at this time of year? — I wonder if he has any qualms about getting his gifts delivered to the wrong addresses.

Wouldn't it be embarrassing if the scissors that were intended for Grandma went to one of the long-haired, guitar-strumming beatniks?

Suppose a set of aluminum cookware went to a young society matron who had never cooked a dinner in her life?

Suppose the newest record by The Dave Clark Five were left in an uptown apartment where the director of a symphony orchestra lived?

Imagine the surprised look on the face of a young bachelor who always plays golf with the boys, if he finds a book on the "American Revolution" in his stocking.

Yes, I would say that Santa has a very exacting job. Before he leaves the North Pole, he certainly has to have all his wits about him.

☆ ☆ ☆

Picturesque portraits I would like to frame for the keeping:

Jaybirds darting in and out of the pine trees . . .

Little boys with laughter as gay as a gurgling brook pointing to toy trains on the lower shelf . . .

Their father, saying, "Let's call Christmas shopping quits for today and come back when the kids are in school . . .

The clerk behind the counter, very disappointed because she has just lost a sale . . .

Sunday Opening

Kearney, Neb.

During the days of our pioneer founding fathers, they observed closely the command to remember the Sabbath Day and keep it holy. They attended church with a loaded gun on their shoulder to protect their families from hostile Indians as they made their way to the church each Lord's Day.

Today in several states, Sunday is an open day for big business. It is high time for God-fearing people to rise up in protest against open stores on Sunday. Let every minister and every church-going citizen and friend of the American way of early democracy rise up in protest strongly. May the Chambers of Commerce and state representatives declare the practice an insult to the memory of our Pilgrim forefathers as well as anti-patriotic and anti-fair-business.

The Knolls

Lincoln, Neb.

Your editorial of December 1 advocating a blanket annexation of areas outside the city requires comment. I do not know the specific position of other tracts of land, such as the industrial tract, but as the developer of The Knolls, I can speak with knowledge.

In the first place, you express agreement with Mayor Petersen's statement that "contiguous and urbanized (areas) which get city protection and utilities" should be annexed. As far as The Knolls is concerned, we do not receive any of these "services" from the city of Lincoln. We have our own rural fire protection district, our own rural school district, our own independent water system and sanitary improvement district. We have put in our own streets and lighting. We are served by Norris Public Power (REA) while the city of Lincoln is serviced by Consumers. And we have exceptionally fine police protection provided by the county sheriff. Why, then, should areas such as The Knolls be taxed by the city of Lincoln to help pay for services which we are either providing ourselves or obtaining from non-city sources?

You then go on to state that since persons in areas such as The Knolls work in Lincoln, these areas should be annexed. How interesting! I wasn't aware that factories, stores and other places of business were provided by the city government out of taxes. Which places of business did you have reference to? But then you go on to state that we ride on city streets and therefore should be annexed. Again, an interesting point, for there are many people who live in Beatrice, Seward, Waverly, Wahoo, Omaha, Ashland and the like who daily commute to work in Lincoln. Are you suggesting that these towns should likewise be annexed by the city? Every weekend, hundreds of Lincoln people come out and drive through The Knolls, on streets provided by people in The Knolls. By your logic, perhaps The Knolls should annex the city of Lincoln!

Using your own reasoning, there is no justification for annexing an area like The Knolls — except the one reason you won't come out and openly admit — the fact that the city could obtain additional tax revenues by doing so. This is what the entire matter comes down to, the fact that the city government is looking around for more people to tax and to control.

You state that The Knolls would not have been developed were it not for the city of Lincoln. In this there is some truth, for it was in order to get away from the restrictions and controls by the city government and to provide for our own services out of our own pockets without burdening the city of Lincoln with these costs that The Knolls was begun. In spite of this, you now say we should start paying taxes to the city of Lincoln even though we have been paying our own way for our own needs. Why?

As I said, your own reasoning destroys your argument, but I am sure you are resourceful enough to come up with some other excuse for justifying your parasitic designs.

Ambassadors

Omaha, Neb.

In modern times it has been a national phenomenon that our law-enforcement people are continuously exposed to ridicule and abuse. Every day policemen are put in the position of being "damned if they do and damned if they don't." With this in mind, we should all take the time to praise these dedicated people when the occasion arises.

Many of us in Omaha and from outstate Nebraska are regular and dedicated fans of the Nebraska football team. Never has the traffic coming into Lincoln on a Saturday been so great and never before has the traffic been handled with such dispatch, courtesy and efficiency demonstrated by the law officers. French Turn Outward

President Charles de Gaulle of France didn't do badly insofar as average elections are concerned, winning a good majority of votes in the country's Sunday presidential election. But nothing is average when De Gaulle is involved and as a consequence the austere president suffered a defeat while winning.

It was thought that De Gaulle would win more than 50 percent of the vote, thus avoiding any runoff. But he won only 43.9 percent of the vote and now must face the runner-up in a later contest.

He will probably win in the runoff but his victory already has been made much less than it might have been. It failed to show the massive French support for the policies promulgated by De Gaulle, policies founded in a dream of French grandeur that simply does not exist.

The fact is that such grandeur as De Gaulle dreamed of does not exist for any nation. France under De Gaulle has tried to do battle against the integration of the world that has come about as a result of social, economic, political and scientific changes that have taken place.

The French election, therefore, gives strength to that reasoning which sees the future of the West and of freedom in a closely knit alignment of nations with basically the same principles and objectives. The election is far from a final settlement of the differences that exist between France under De Gaulle and much of the rest of the world but it might be hoped that even the general himself might feel the winds of change that blow today on every continent.

Right And Justice And Juries

Editorially the Denver Post said, "Those of us who had pronounced justice dead in Alabama, were, it seems, incorrect and unjust."

The Post was referring to the fact that twice within 24 hours, all white Alabama juries returned guilty verdicts in civil rights cases. In Anniston, in the first verdict of its kind in recent Alabama history, Hubert Damon Strange was convicted of second degree murder in the slaying of a Negro. A day later, in Montgomery, three Ku Klux Klansmen were found guilty of conspiracy to kill a white civil rights worker. Earlier trials had found defendants not guilty and had freed them.

The Post editorial relates the common confusion between right and wrong, and trial by jury and the process of justice. Justice is a procedure and if it is adequately carried out it completes itself regardless of whether, in the public view, right has prevailed. Right and wrong are qualities that vary according to the society that measures them. In a homogenous society a system of justice generally results in what, in the consensus, is considered right. There are times when it falters but they are exceptions. But in a society of differing views what is right to one group is wrong to another.

Trial by jury is a separate matter. It marks the culmination of a long struggle against whimsical judgments representing the will of a superior and not the rights of the man on trial. It was a great victory for the common man when he won the right to be judged in his own community by his own kind of people. It lends a localized and humane touch and raises the stature of all individuals.

The three are separate institutions and should not be lumped together to the discredit of all of them.

The Federal Reserve

The Federal Reserve Board raised the bank discount rate from 4 to 4.5 percent.

Monday, as a result, the stock market went into temporary reverse. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks plunged 17.60 points the first half hour of trading. By early afternoon the fall had been reduced to 5.18.

The Federal Reserve explanation of its action was three parts, 1 to forestall inflationary threats, 2 to stabilize the outflow of gold and 3 to maintain the firms of the dollar internationally.

The first cause of the nervousness in the market was the national administration's opposition to the Federal Reserve move; its insistence that inflation is not a menace, coupled with its determination to push economic activity to new highs.

It must be remembered that the stock market is not business or industry. It is an investor field and market values rise and fall according to the balance between willing buyers and sellers. Its sudden gyration should not become infectious.

At the worst, at this stage there is only a difference of opinion between the national administration and the Federal Reserve Board over what is the more prudent thing to do. Only the future will determine that. But one thing is certain, the higher discount rate and the bulge in interest rates paid to time depositors in banks will tend to turn more money into bank deposits rather than into other segments of the economy and that might unbalance national industry. An investor might prefer to earn 5½ per cent by putting his surplus funds in banks than investing them in common stocks whose dividends are generally lower.

But as yet no one has been hurt.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Secretary Of State Attacked By Critics

WASHINGTON — Just five years ago a reserved, quiet mannered foundation president, whom not a single American in 10,000 had ever heard of, stepped from comfortable anonymity into the very eye of conflict and controversy. President-elect John F. Kennedy asked Dean Rusk to be secretary of State in the cabinet he was forming.

If Rusk ever regretted his decision he has given no sign of it. In the turmoil of an office that concentrates on the individual who occupies it and belted by the full force of every foreign policy crisis, he has continued to maintain a discreet personal reserve. Rusk, the man, is unfailingly subordinate to the dedicated public servant.

No office except the presidency is subject to such a glare of public interest. And the President, by reason of the eminence of his office, is often sheltered from the slings and the arrows of misfortune that assail the secretary of state.

One of the reasons Kennedy chose him was because he meant to be his own secretary of state and the President-elect knew this was Rusk's concept of the office. He was to be an instrument carrying out the policy of the chief executive. The president of the Rockefeller Foundation, as Rusk was, wrote in foreign affairs in 1960: "The President, with the aid of his secretary of state and the support of the Congress, supplies the leadership in our foreign relations."

Rusk has been scrupulous in interpreting that definition and this is one reason for the criticism directed at him publicly by historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., and privately by others in the Kennedy wing of the Democratic establishment. He fails to come up with initiatives. He is too neutral. No one knows where he really stands. This is the main thrust of the discontent with the secretary of state.

But a glance at presidential history shows that Rusk, with one conspicuous exception, is in the tradition of secretaries of state. Presidents have almost invariably asserted their consititutional right to direct foreign policy. And if the secretary didn't like the policy set by the President he could resign, as some have done, or he could adapt his views to those of his chief, as others have done.

The exception was John Foster Dulles. President Eisenhower, with his chain of office, delegated to Dulles the initiative. And Dulles, with his long background in foreign affairs, his ambition, his aggressive self-confidence, was only too eager to take it.

The office as a consequence was inflated with Dulles, a resourceful phrase-maker, a news-maker, keeping himself in the public eye At the same time, in the view of critics of the Dulles era, he inflated the aims of American policy far beyond the means and the will to carry out those aims. Rusk's defenders believe that it is against this distortion of the office that he is compared and found wanting.

Dough From Doughnuts Sweeter Than Salary

By ROBERT PETERSON

Phoenix, Ariz.—Hundreds of new businesses are springing up here and elsewhere via the franchise method. Many firms that once operated their own outlets for products such as hardware, furniture, clothing and food are finding it more profitable to furnish the know-how and merchandise and then let selected, highly-motivated personnel operate independently.

This time last year salesman Gilford Langil, 58, was still living in his hometown of Westwood, Mass. While reading a paper in the barbershop one day he noted the ad of a nearby firm saying a franchise was open for a doughnut shop in Phoenix.

He replied to the ad and was called in for interviews. The firm checked his background, motivation, and finances and approved him for the franchise. He quit his job and took an eight-week training course offered by the company. Then last January he and his wife bid the neighbors goodbye and moved here.

"It's surprising how quickly a fellow can step out of his rut if he wants to," mused Langil when I talked with him at his Dunkin' Donuts shop on West Camelback Road which grosses over $100,000 a year.

"I always felt I had more potential than working as a route salesman for a bakery. But the fact that I never completed high school held me back. Then I drifted past 40 and figured it was too late to start a business of my own."

How does his franchise deal work? "I had to have $15,000 cash to swing it. $10,000 of this went as a down payment on the equipment and furnishings which are valued at $35,000, and I have five years to pay the balance. The other $5,000 was used to buy materials and get started.

"The firm owns the building as well as this very valuable lot, and I pay them $900 monthly on a lease with options up to 20 years. I buy all my supplies and food ingredients from the company and follow standard recipes and operating methods. It's a big chain so we get the benefits of mass buying.

"I'm worki. g harder than ever. But a fellow doesn't feel overworked when it's his own business. With a franchise both the firm and the individual profit. They give you the benefit of years of experience, and give you a chance to show what kind of a businessman you are. One of their men pops in every couple of weeks to make sure everything's going okay.

"The shop is open 24 hours a day and I'm around about half the time. Our apartment is just five minutes away so I'm in and out. I've got eight people and some part-time student help on my payroll. The minimum wage is $1.10 per hour and there's a good labor supply. My margin of profit on sales isn't great, but I'm doing better for myself than I did as a salesman, and I'm building on my investment.

"Coming here has meant a major change for a couple of New England middle-agers. But both my wife and I love it. It's like starting a brand new chapter with everything different—new scenery, new climate, new friends and new challenges. It has certainly perked up my morale, too. Starting a new career at my age has given me a new sense of personal worth and usefulness."

Mason, Mayor Clash Over Review Of Budget

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

A look at the fiscal 1964-65 city budget erupted into a display of disagreement Monday between members of the City Council and Mayor Dean Petersen.

Councilman John Mason had requested the review, over a week ago, in order to compare actual expenditures with items budgeted for last year.

In answer to Mason's request last week, City Finance Director James Mallon had refused to report on the budget, telling the councilman he would do so only at the mayor's direction.

Thorough Briefing

During Monday's session, and evidently with Mayor Petersen's approval, Mallon gave the council a thorough briefing on 1964-65 expenditures, in the process telling them that out of a general fund appropriation of $6 million, the city came within 2.92% of spending the total without any department overdrawing their budget.

Apparently the only area of disagreement was the need for a special meeting for review, because council members after the session agreed that Mallon's report was thoroughly prepared and presented a true picture.

Mayor Petersen, however, told Mason that the request was "idle curiosity". The mayor said the books are open for Mason's inspection at any time.

'Don't Tell Me'

Mason retorted, "Don't you sit there and tell me it's idle curiosity, you don't have the right to say that. I haven't had this information before and I assume the privilege as a councilman in asking for it."

Mason also said, "There isn't anything that makes me flair up faster than when someone resists providing accounting information."

The mayor agreed to the council's right to such information, but added, "there's a limit to what my departments can do . . . the information is available to anyone that wants it. I don't think I should waste the taxpayer's money. This (request for information) has happened three times with you, John."

'Waste Of Time'

Veteran Councilman D. L. Tyrrell called the meeting "a waste of time", saying that he is "not going to come to any more of them if they are called".

"We've always had a cooperative council . . . it's falling to pieces here someplace", Tyrrell said.

But Councilman Lloyd Hinkley said budget review sessions are helpful and should not be taken lightly. "I don't feel that anyone distrusts the present mayor or his administration", Hinkley said, "but the council should know basic accounting methods and should be able to question the budget".

Aggressive Annexation Continued

The City Council's pursuit of an aggressive annexation policy went another step forward Monday as nearly 100 acres of land between Normal Blvd. and South St. and 62nd and 70th were taken into the city.

The controversial annexation ordinance, which passed on a 5-1 vote, has been before the council for several months.

Councilman John Comstock cast the only negative vote, calling it a "protest for the lack of any apparent willingness on the part of the (city) department and people affected to create a zoning category which would allow people to live in that type of environment (acreage-size plots) inside the city limits."

Council members Mrs. Helen Boosalis, Lloyd Hinkley, John Mason, Carroll Thompson and D. L. Tyrrell favored the annexation. Ervin Peterson was absent.

Comstock said under present conditions, owners of the larger properties taken into the city would be stuck with prohibitive special assessments for utilities and might be forced to further subdivide out of necessity.

Mason argued that objections raised by residents of the 70th and Normal area centering on high assessments and the question of adequate fire protection were not sufficient reasons to stall annexation of the tract.

Of five new annexation ordinances read for the first time Monday, one would annex an urban area between 14th and 27th comprised of The Knolls, Lincoln Industrial Park, the Peterson residential tract and So. 14th, from Burnham south to the county road, including the commercial area west of 14th.

An ordinance to annex a comparable area, but excluding 14th and the commercial area, will be up for public hearing next week.

Also introduced was an ordinance ratifying the three-month-old reorganization of the Lincoln Police Department into three primary divisions—criminal, uniform and services.

Each of the divisions would be under the supervision of an officer above the rank of captain.

The ordinance is viewed as a possible first step toward the creation of the post of police inspector, a move favored by Chief Joseph Carroll. Carroll has said he hopes to have "a proper chain of command" lined up by the first of the year.

Council members unanimously appointed absent member Peterson to be their representative on a committee to survey pay scales of fire departments in other cities.

Fred Soflin, president of local 644 of the International Association of Firefighters, appeared before the council to again ask for the survey and requested "an early start so we can get our information by budget time. We were too late last year."

City Personnel Director Walter Mitchell said his department would work with local 644 "and other groups to get started on a pay program for all classifications," but the council said it would go ahead with the committee approach because of a committment made to the local firemen during budget hearings last August.

Soflin said it was not his intent to circumvent the personnel department entirely.

2 Found Guilty In Capitol Thefts Case

Two Lincoln businessmen pleaded nolo contendere in Lancaster District Court Monday to charges of accessory after the fact and concealing stolen property in connection with office equipment thefts from the State Capitol.

Eugene Irick and Kenneth Franks, partners in Bud's Electric, were charged with having knowledge of grand larceny by a Penitentiary parolee who is being held in connection with the thefts.

Judge Elmer Scheele found the pair guilty and deferred sentencing Irick and Franks pending investigation by the adult probation officer.

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said he would decide whether charges would be filed against the parolee after the State Parole Board acts on revocation of his parole.

He said he is convinced that they are the only three people "criminally involved" in the thefts which included four desks, two typewriters and a calculator.

Fisherman Freedom

Tokyo (AP)—The Soviet Union has notified Japan it will release 46 Japanese fishermen held on charges of violating Soviet territorial waters, the foreign ministry announced. The announcement said the fishermen, captured between Aug. 27 and Oct. 19 this year, will be handed over to Japanese authorities Thursday at Soviet-held Shikotan Island. The crewmen are from four fishing vessels.

Snow-Sculpturing Contest For City Youngsters Set

The city Recreation Arts and Crafts Department will hold a snow-sculpturing contest for Lincoln children in the age groups of 10-12, 13-15 and 16-18.

Provided there is enough snow, the contest will open Dec. 27 with the judging Dec. 29. If there is no snow on these dates, the contest will be held on the following week, Jan. 3 with the judging Jan. 5.

The department suggests that children either use slush or water-sprayed snow to form the preliminary model which can then be carved, chipped, or smoothed to the desired shape.

The department is also holding its second session of lapidary (stone cutting and polishing) Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Muny Building, 22nd and M. Fees are $3 for beginners and $5 for advanced students.

Free workshops are open to the public in the Arts and Crafts Studio at Pershing Auditorium. Included in these workshops are adult knitting (Mondays, 3-5 p.m.)', holiday crafts (Monday, 10 a.m.-noon), and gift wrapping (Thursday, 3:45-4:30).

For rules and policies regarding the snow contest, children in these age groups should contact the recreation office. Information concerning the other activities can also be obtained at the office.

Accountants, Attorneys Review Federal Income Tax Problems

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Highly technical presentations of particular federal income tax problems characterized the sessions Monday of the three-day Great Plains Federal Tax Institute here for public accountants and attorneys from Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.

More than 100 registered for the third annual institute sponsored by the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants and the University of Nebraska, according to Robert Henderson of Lincoln.

Jeweled bullwhip manufacturers and rhinestone mines figured prominently in the Monday afternoon discussions as the conference participants considered advanced level studies of tax problems, using imaginary cases.

Highlighting the first institute session was Professor Robert R. Milroy of the Indiana University graduate school of business.

Flexibility Problems

Milroy, who discussed tax problems arising from flexibility of laws pertaining to business partnerships and adjustments of undistributed property after withdrawal of a partner, is a Certified Public Accountant (CPA), and a member of the Indiana and American Bar Associations in addition to several other organizations. He also has co-authored numerous books on the theory and practice of accounting.

John E. North of Omaha, member of the Omaha, Nebraska and American Bar Associations and a former professor of law at Creighton University, spoke on the examination of rulings, court and regulation changes of 1965.

He covered such subjects as payment to employe's widow, imputed income, deductible expenses, depreciation, depletion, charitable contributions, administration expenses, casualty loss, capital gains and losses, nonrecognition of gain, accounting, corporations investment credit, disability pension and retirement and divorce.

To Open Session

Harold J. Corwin, Denver CPA, will open the tax institute Tuesday morning, analyzing the pitfalls in incorporating the partnership, transfers of mortgaged property, business purposes, unrealized receivables and inventory.

Other speakers for the second day's session will include St. Louis CPA Roy G. Mosher, partner in Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. and Lincoln attorney Thomas M. Davies.

THERE'S a holiday spirit in suburban areas

An evening walk through the suburban areas would introduce you to the joy and beauty of many, many lighted Christmas trees and other symbols of the holiday season which are gracing homes

A second glance around and you might also see many of the residents leaving those gayly decorated homes—on their way to a Christmas party or perhaps they may be welcoming Yule guests But whatever you see, it will be a happy sight

PRAIRIE HILL

The past weeks have been busy ones socially speaking that is, for Mr and Mrs Isaac Wheeler On Thanksgiving Day Mr and Mrs. Wheeler and their son Stuart went to Omaha where they were the guests of their son and daughter-in-law Mr and Mrs. Robert Wheeler and children Cindy and Ron The two families also were joined in Omaha by another Lincoln family and another son and daughter-in-law of Mr and Mrs Wheeler Mr and Mrs William Wheeler and their four children

Then came Tuesday of last week and the arrival of a third son and daughter-in-law Mr and Mrs Kenneth Wheeler and their children Kimberly and John of Effingham Ill The guest foursome visited with Mr. and Mrs Wheeler until Thursday of last week

Recent guests at the home of Mr and Mrs. A. H. Ness were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr and Mrs Mel Ness of Pueblo, Colo The Colorado couple spent their Thanksgiving vacation from Southern Colorado State University at Mr. and Mrs Ness' Prairie Hill home, and accompanied the Lincoln couple to the Nebraska-Oklahoma football game

Mr and Mrs. Donald Wilcox tell us that their daughter, Marjorie, had an overnight guest and dinner guest on Sunday, November 30 The guest for the day was Miss Barbara Hofker

Mr and Mrs. George Stone tell us that pheasants can be just as nasty to us as we are to them when we go out hunting—It seems that on the way home from Michigan after the Thanksgiving holiday the Stone family got a pheasant, but not in the way they would have liked to—which would probably be with a gun—ah no, instead the feathery bird delivered himself right to them in fact right onto the car, and in so doing managed to wrinkle the hood and crack a windshield—the joy of it all—Well maybe that wasn't so pleasant, but their Wednesday to Sunday visit with Mr. Stone's parents, Mr and Mrs P. W. Stone in Holly, Mich was a joy as was their visit in Battle Creek Mich with Mrs. Stone's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Steinkraus and their family.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Old high school chums will gather at the home of Mrs Kent Sherman Wednesday evening for their annual Christmas party. Coffee, Christmas goodies" and conversation will keep the group in a festive mood throughout the evening and we hear the "chums" will add a gift exchange to the list of events for that night. Assisting Mrs. Sherman with the hostess duties will be Mrs. Ed Carlson and the guest list includes the names of Mrs. Jim McKinney, Mrs. Jack Curtis, Mrs. Larry Davis, Mrs. Gene Burcham, Mrs. Ace Fogerty, Mrs. Charles Wendelin, Mrs. Larry Delaney, and Mrs. Don Hurst.

TALK
of the town

If experience really is the teacher it is supposed to be we can tell you right now that the holiday season in Lincoln has all of the earmarks of a gay and merry one Actually we are basing our prophecy on neither experience nor know-how — but on the best news source there is—the grapevine.

And this morning our grapevine cultivating netted the news that Lincoln is to have a terrific guest list during the holidays.

Among the first to arrive will be Mrs R C L. Green of Portsmouth, NH. who will be greeted on Friday by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer, and their children, Helen and Tag.

It seems that Mrs. Green stopped off in Kenilworth, Ill., for a visit with another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R C L Greer, Jr., and their family.

And on Tuesday, Dec. 21, Mrs Greer, Jr., and the three young Greers, Bill, Jim and Julie, will arrive to spend Christmas in Lincoln and will be joined here the following Thursday by Mr. Greer.

The visitors from Kenilworth will be the house guests of Mrs. Greer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William I. Atiken, but also will visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor Greer.

* * *

A fivesome from the west coast—Mr. and Mrs. David Olson and their children — Charles (Chad), Christopher (Chip) and Emily will be arriving on Sunday, Dec. 19, from Atherton, Calif., to spend the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson and their family will be the house guests of Mrs. Olson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O.M. Anderson, but also will visit Mr. Olson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Olson.

* * *

Then we learned that Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Coleman (Jacque Mowbray) will be arriving from Austin, Tex., on Dec. 22, to spend the holidays with Mrs. Coleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Mowbray.

But Mr. and Mrs. Coleman are not the only holiday arrivals at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mowbray. Their son Scott, a student at Arizona State University at Tempe, Ariz., will arrive for the Christmas season on Dec. 17.

* * *

There are many more guests to talk about—on another day Right now we want to mention a canape party for which Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hillegass will be host and hostess at their home on Friday evening between the hours of 5 30 o'clock and 8.30 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Hillegass are saying a pre-Christmas 'thank you' to the 72 couples who worked very hard to make the Lincoln Symphony Headdress Ball (held last Saturday evening) a success.

* * *

We also wanted to tell you that the members of the Fifty Fifty Club will be dining and bridge-ing this evening at Hotel Lincoln. Dr. and Mrs. Hollis Askey are in charge of the arrangements.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can print this before Christmas. It might save a child's life. Last year I bought a package of fresh mistletoe to decorate my house for the holidays. My two-year-old daughter got into the package, which was sitting on my kitchen table. The mistletoe berries looked as though they would be good to eat, so she ate some. (No one saw her eat them, and even if I had seen her eat them I probably wouldn't have been alarmed because I didn't know mistletoe berries were poisonous.) Later that evening she became violently ill. We called a doctor and fortunately she hadn't eaten enough to kill her, but she was very, very ill. Please warn other mothers, Abby.

SAN BRUNO MOM

DEAR MOM: Thank you for your informative letter. I thought mistletoe was to inspire kissing. I didn't know it was the kiss of death.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I broke up with a fellow about a month ago and now he wants to go back with me, but I don't want to date him any more. My mother is on HIS side and is doing everything she can think of to help him. (She coaches him on how to get a date with me. If I tell him I'm busy she tells him to ask me for the next night, or the next, until I have a free evening.) I think the only reason she likes him is because he has a car, and if he takes me some place, like to a game or a dance, SHE won't have to. I am only 15. He is 18. How can I get my Mom to let me make up my own mind about the guys I want to date?

OLD ENOUGH

DEAR OLD ENOUGH: Since you are on to his strategy, it shouldn't be difficult to beat him at his own game. But why the minuet? Tell the fellow you don't want to date him. And tell your Mom that giving aid and comfort to "the enemy" is treason.

Q. Our home is for sale. Our equity should be about $5,000. Our real estate firm has a buyer who wants to assume our $15,000 loan but we're afraid of the risk as we would still be responsible for payment if they default. Your opinion?

A. Remember, if you SHOULD HAVE TO take the home back you would take it back for the balance mortgage at that time. I DON'T THINK you'll be that LUCKY. Let the buyer assume your loan.

Opening lead—queen of spades.

Some players have trouble executing an endplay because they are not exactly sure of when or how to force an opponent into the lead to compel a friendly return.

Actually, the endplay is a relatively simple gadget to use, and once declarer is able to project in his mind the end situation coming up he should have no trouble executing the play.

Here is a typical setup. West leads a spade and declarer sees that the only possible losers are a diamond and a club. He also notes that a diamond must be lost, come what may, but that the club loser may be avoided by taking a finesse against the queen.

However, instead of placing all his faith in the possibility that East was dealt the queen of clubs, he should attempt to arrange an endplay so as to force the defenders, instead of himself, to lead clubs.

Accordingly, he takes the queen of spades with the ace, draws two rounds of trumps, and then cashes the king of spades and A-K of diamonds. Now he plays a low diamond, permitting either opponent to win the trick.

When he makes this play, South knows that the defender who takes the diamond will be forced to return a club in order to avoid yielding a ruff and discard.

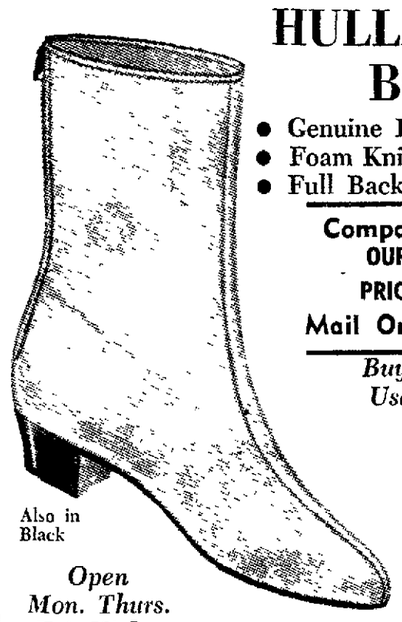

If it turns out that West takes the trick, South has a sure thing going for him, regardless of which suit West chooses to return.

So let's say that East wins the diamond and makes the forced club return. In that case, while South still cannot guarantee the result, he remains a heavy favorite to make the contract.

When East returns a low club, South plays the five. As the cards happen to lie, the queen is trapped and the hand is over, but in any hand where East has either the ten or queen, South would make the contract.

ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can print this before Christmas. It might save a child's life. Last year I bought a package of fresh mistletoe to decorate my house for the holidays. My two-year-old daughter got into the package, which was sitting on my kitchen table. The mistletoe berries looked as though they would be good to eat, so she ate some. (No one saw her eat them, and even if I had seen her eat them I probably wouldn't have been alarmed because I didn't know mistletoe berries were poisonous.) Later that evening she became violently ill. We called a doctor and fortunately she hadn't eaten enough to kill her, but she was very, very ill. Please warn other mothers, Abby.

SAN BRUNO MOM

DEAR MOM: Thank you for your informative letter. I thought mistletoe was to inspire kissing. I didn't know it was the kiss of death.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I broke up with a fellow about a month ago and now he wants to go back with me, but I don't want to date him any more. My mother is on HIS side and is doing everything she can think of to help him. (She coaches him on how to get a date with me. If I tell him I'm busy she tells him to ask me for the next night, or the next, until I have a free evening.) I think the only reason she likes him is because he has a car, and if he takes me some place, like to a game or a dance, SHE won't have to. I am only 15. He is 18. How can I get my Mom to let me make up my own mind about the guys I want to date?

OLD ENOUGH

DEAR OLD ENOUGH: Since you are on to his strategy, it shouldn't be difficult to beat him at his own game. But why the minuet? Tell the fellow you don't want to date him. And tell your Mom that giving aid and comfort to "the enemy" is treason.

Reserve Board's Boost In Discount Rate Will Have Some Effect Locally

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

It is "not unlikely that some local borrowing rates will be affected on a selective basis" by the Federal Reserve Board's increase in the discount rate, a Lincoln banker said Monday.

The effect will be immediate for some newly negotiated loans, according to Burnham Yates, president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Lincoln.

Yates said it would be difficult to define what rates will be affected and in what amounts at this time.

The National Bank of Commerce, Trust & Savings has "not made any moves at all" in reaction to the federal announcement, President Glenn Yaussi said.

"We want to wait and watch. In our opinion, this indicates that interest rates for the borrower will increase, but we will wait and see what the larger money centers do first."

A spokesman for a community bank outside the down town area said smaller banks are likely to play "follow the leader" in reacting to the hike in rates which banks pay when they borrow money from the federal reserve. He asked not to be identified.

The president of City National Bank of Lincoln said his institution plans no immediate reaction to the announcement.

"I can't see rates jumping very much in Lincoln," Roland Tornblom said. "We wouldn't start it."

Secondary

Tornblom said the effect in Lincoln would more likely be secondary, reflecting financial decisions taken first by institutions on both coasts.

First reaction here might be "a general tightening up on loans," he noted.

Nothing Immediate

"We are not anticipating anything immediate," he said "It would more likely be some time in coming."

Citizens is planning "no reaction at all," he noted.

The Federal Reserve Board ordered an increase in the discount rate from 4% to 4.5%, largely in an effort to forestall inflation.

Also boosted from 4.5% to 5.5% was the maximum interest which may be paid on time deposits placed in banks for a specified time period.

Ley Thinks Rate Increases To Retard Financial Activity

State Banking Director Henry Ley Monday said the Federal Reserve Boards ordered increase in interest rates "will slightly retard financial activity" in Nebraska.

He said the immediate impact of the order should be slight because of the state's healthy economic posture altough increased interest rates will "drain off money that might otherwise have been used for some forms of industrial or farming business" and will "retard borrowing."

On Sunday, the Reserve Board ordered an increase from 4 to 4½% in the discount rate that banks pay when they borrow money from the Federal Reserve.

The board also raised from 4 to 5½% the maximum interest that may be paid on time deposits put in banks for specified time periods.

Ley said the result will be the placement of more money with banks on a time deposit basis as well as increases in interest rates for loans at most banks.

However, he doubted that all banks in Nebraska will increase interest rates as a result of the Reserve Board action.

The State Banking Department in November, 1964, raised from 4 to 4½% the permissible interest rate on time deposits but only four banks responded with increased rates, Ley said.

"Some banks will raise their rates, and others won't," Ley said. "It's a decision of management, and I expect most banks will make the decision within 30 days."

Ley said interest rates of Nebraska banks have generally been one per cent less than rates in the western half of the nation and have been on a par with rates of eastern banks.

"Increases in rates may put Nebraska banks in a position where they would have to compete with the higher interest rates in other states," Ley said.

Omaha (AP)—The Omaha National Bank increased its prime lending rate from 4½ to 5% Monday, reacting to the Federal Reserve Board's increase in interest rates.

The prime lending rate is the interest charged on 90-day loans to borrowers with the highest credit ratings.

G & T's Views On Power Needs Told

The Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative has informed a legislative power study committee that added transmission capacity should precede construction of new generation facilities within the state.

G & T's views were presented to the committee in a written statement submitted by Dil Blatchford of Columbus, general manager of the cooperative formed by 23 rural electric districts.

"The pattern for large generation capacity installation requires increased transmission capacity requirements before or at the time the new generation capacity is added, since transmission is required to support the added generation capacity," the statement read.

"Thus, for Nebraska to accumulate the load deficiencies requires that we continue a purchase program for a few years.

"And in order to purchase additional power on a firm basis requires transmission capacity now, which can be fully utilized and required at the time new low-cost generation capacity is added within the state.

"The sequence of transmission capacity prior to generation capacity ought to be plain to anyone."

Liquor Revenue Collections Up

The Nebraska Liquor Control Commission Monday reported November tax and fee collections totaled nearly $475,000, an increase of about $53,000 from collections for the same month a year ago.

November collections increased significantly in the areas of spirituous liquors and beer but dropped for fortified wines when compared to November, 1964, collections.

The November total pushed to $4,857,596 the collections for the first 11 months of this year, an increase of about $550,000 from the 11-month total for 1964, due primarily to tax increases approved by the last Legislature.

G & T's Views On Power Needs Told

The Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative has informed a legislative power study committee that added transmission capacity should precede construction of new generation facilities within the state.

G & T's views were presented to the committee in a written statement submitted by Dil Blatchford of Columbus, general manager of the cooperative formed by 23 rural electric districts.

"The pattern for large generation capacity installation requires increased transmission capacity requirements before or at the time the new generation capacity is added, since transmission is required to support the added generation capacity," the statement read.

"Thus, for Nebraska to accumulate the load deficiencies requires that we continue a purchase program for a few years.

"And in order to purchase additional power on a firm basis requires transmission capacity now, which can be fully utilized and required at the time new low-cost generation capacity is added within the state.

"The sequence of transmission capacity prior to generation capacity ought to be plain to anyone."

Liquor Revenue Collections Up

The Nebraska Liquor Control Commission Monday reported November tax and fee collections totaled nearly $475,000, an increase of about $53,000 from collections for the same month a year ago.

November collections increased significantly in the areas of spirituous liquors and beer but dropped for fortified wines when compared to November, 1964, collections.

The November total pushed to $4,857,596 the collections for the first 11 months of this year, an increase of about $550,000 from the 11-month total for 1964, due primarily to tax increases approved by the last Legislature.

No Impasse On Church, State Issue

...SAYS FELLMAN

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Debate on church-state issues has "not reached an impasse," according to the president of the American Association of University Professors, Dr. David Fellman, former University of Nebraska professor

There is still much room in consideration of church-state problems "for accommodation and negotiation" on both sides, the professor, now at the University of Wisconsin, declared.

Fellman addressing an NU audience dominated by political science and law students, discussed the relationship of two concepts of religious freedom to which America is committed freedom of man to believe in God and the separation of church and state

No Complete Separation

Religious freedom, he emphasized cannot be stated in absolute terms and is "not without limit," just as complete separation of church and state is "altogether unattainable"

A political scientist whose major field of study and research is American constitutional law with special reference to civil liberties, Fellman pointed out that "freedom in religion is only absolute in the sense that one is free to believe in anything at all"

However, he added, "religion invariably involves action," and where the practice of religion goes beyond mere belief and affects outsiders, "constitutional law permits us to step in."

The conduct of religious exercise, he explained, "remains subject to regulation for the protection of society. Even though an act arises from a religious principle, its religious label does not put it out of state regulation."

Fellman, author of "The Defendant's Rights, "a book on criminal law research, told of some of the circumstances in which the government intervenes even among the religious practitioners, such as prohibiting certain ceremonies, requiring vaccinations in public schools, regulating the practice of medicine, curtailing obscene language in public, and enforcing child labor laws.

Unthinkable

Noting that the state has supported religion on many occasions, for instance tax exemptions which courts sustain on grounds of public policy, he said that "complete separation in our kind of society is simply unthinkable."

Fellman said that once the state has adopted a policy of extending exemptions, it follows that it "assumes the responsibility of deciding what a church is."

Civil courts, "which are invariably embarrassed," he added, "do take theological problems," reinstating memberships, and pastors, deciding in church divisions which faction should occupy church property, and often deciding what constitutes a religion or a church.

Fellman mentioned that a Supreme Court decision determined that the 14th Amendment gave citizens a right to choose church schools in favor of public education.

Church-state issues, according to Fellman, merit decisions arrived at "rationally and sensibly" The burden of proof, he emphasized, rests on those who seek to justify restraint. While "partial separation does not end the conflict, it does minimize it"

New Trial Is Sought In Shooting

Attorneys for Holt County rancher James K. Newman Monday asked the State Supreme Court to grant Newman a new trial in connection with last year's fatal shooting of Stuart Town Marshal Delbert Addison.

Newman was sentenced to life imprisonment after a Holt County District Court jury found him guilty of second degree murder. He is free on bond pending final determination of the case.

His attorneys told Supreme Court judges that Holt County Atty. William W. Griffin aided in prosecution of Newman even though Griffin was a witness for the state and the court had appointed a special prosecutor

The Key

"The participation of the county attorney is the key," said Richard L. Goos of Lincoln. "He committed prejudicial acts against the defendant which entitle the defendant to a new trial."

Atkinson attorney Francis D Lee said Griffin not only "made harsh and incriminating statements" against Newman from the witness stand but also "conferred continuously with the special prosecuting attorney during the trial."

T. Clement Gaughan of Lincoln said Griffin sat at the counsel's table "like Shylock waiting for his pound of flesh."

Assistant Atty. Gen. Richard Williams argued:

By merely sitting at the counsel's table, he (Griffin) was not guilty of prejudicial error He sat there, yes, but made no statements of record aside from his appearance as a witness."

'Simple Case'

"What we have here," Williams said, "is a rather simple case of murder, and the jury's findings should be upheld."

Addison was fatally wounded on a Stuart street Sept. 27, 1964, while he was attempting to take Newman to the village jail.

The shooting culminated a fight between the two concerning the jailing of Newman's son, Chuck, earlier in the day.

No Decision On Dept. To Be Relocated

State Administrative Services Director Willard Townsend said Monday no decision has been reached on whether the Aeronautics Department or Department of Banking will move from the Statehouse.

Townsend said Aeronautics is willing to move and can make satisfactory arrangements for space at the Lincoln Municipal Airport's General Aviation Building

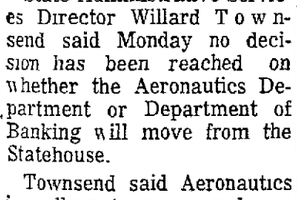

He said financial arrangements are holding up the decision

Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt said he understood the Legislature's Budget Committee left the final decision to the governor

Townsend said the space must be obtained by Dec. 15 so work can begin to convert the space for a data processing computer due next March.

Townsend said every day of delay after Dec. 15 could boost ultimate costs of the installation.

SPORT SIGNALS

By Hal Brown

Sports Editor, The Star

Basketball Leaps In

While many Nebraskans are still talking football and will be until after the New Year's Night battle between the Cornhuskers and Alabama, that other major collegiate sport has hit.

And in case you haven't noticed the early skirmishes of last week, the true sports fan should find it difficult to pass up this week's basketball offerings.

It starts with a chance to see whether the Huskers of coach Joe Cipriano can continue their hot shooting pace that set an NU record with 101 in the opener last week at Wisconsin.

Cipriano, who didn't give NU fans a look at what he calls an improved pressing defense against the frosh, likely will take the wraps off it tonight when the Scarlet and Cream cagers meet Oregon State at the NU Coliseum.

But the real basketball action this week will involve the Creighton Bluejays who go against a highly-rated Iowa team at Iowa City Wednesday, then return to Omaha's Civic Auditorium to test Bradley, ninth rated in the AP pre-season poll, Thursday night.

Iowa, under new coach Ralph Miller, handed national champion UCLA one of its two defeats last season and also defeated Creighton, 98-83.

The Hawkeyes have already made a bid to crack the national ratings along with Creighton. Creighton made its bid with an opening win over 10th ranked Kansas State.

Iowa moved toward recognition by stopping NCAA College Division champion Evansville, 80-73, after the little giants of college basketball had won 35 straight including eight wins last season over major college foes—one of them Iowa.

Bradley has defeated Wisconsin of Milwaukee, 104-68, and Northern Michigan, 90-78, to keep its spot in the top 10 ratings.

Take His Saddle Away

If your youngster is showing signs of leaving his golf clubs in the corner in favor of riding that horse you have out in the country, you might be doing him a favor by taking his saddle away from him.

The latest compilation of money won by professional athletes shows that Dean Oliver is the leading cowboy on the rodeo circuit with $31,392.

You have to go a long ways down the golf money list to find anyone making that small amount. In fact, in official earnings, the No. 10 man, Arnold Palmer, made nearly twice that much, picking up $57,770.

Jack Nicklaus led in official golf earnings with $140,752, nearly five times the earnings of Dean Oliver. And of course, golfers also have a more lucrative endorsement field.

How many sweaters do you suppose a rodeo cowboy could sell in a magazine advertisement?

Anteaters And Bug-Eaters

Nebraska fans in the past two years have had to endure War Eagle cries from Auburn fans and Whoo Pig Sooey from Arkansans, but if the Huskers ever schedule the newest branch of the University of California, the shout will be "Zot!"

A special student election was held to select a name for its athletic teams and 559 of the 998 students voting cast their ballot for The Anteaters.

Before you laugh, let us remind you that Nebraska teams once went by the name "Bug-Eaters."

The Anteaters was a natural since students on the Irvine, Calif., campus are used to yelling "Zot!" whenever their water polo team scores a goal. So why not "Zot!" for a touchdown.

Says UC at Irvine's athletic director Wayne Crawford, "Actually I'm not too much in favor of it. I'm skeptical about the name as a permanent thing."

JONES QUITS AS OU COACH

Gomer Tired Of Criticism

. . . SCHOOL OFFICIALS SHOCKED

Norman, Okla. (AP)—Gomer Jones, who admitted he had a tiger by the tail when he took over as head football coach at the University of Oklahoma two years ago, resigned Monday after the Sooners' poorest record in modern history.

Jones, 51, who retained his job as athletic director, said, "I'm doing it for the good of the university and its football program.

"I just got tired of the criticism and of constantly reading and listening to all the untrue rumors concerning my position as head coach here."

The OU Board of Regents had just said that Jones four-year contract would be honored. University President George L. Cross expressed shock.

"It is a matter of regret to me," Dr. Cross said. "I think Gomer is a splendid coach and that he would have demonstrated this in the two years his contract still has to run. I had confidence in him.

GOMER JONES

"The play of his team in the last two games demonstrated this. This comes of his own volition. He and I have not discussed this possibility before. It's his own decision."

There was speculation that Darrell Royal, a Sooner star quarterback in the 40's and now head coach at Texas, and Charley Curtis, an assistant coach at Southern Methodist, were high on the list of possible successors.

Wilkinson, who quit in 1964 for an unsuccessful race for the U.S. Senate, was in nearby Oklahoma City Monday but could not be reached immediately for comment.

Wilkinson has let it be known that he would like to return to coaching. He is now head of Lifetime Sports, Inc., in Washington and has his own television football show NBC.

Jones flew to Kansas City, Mo. after the resignation was announced by the university. He was to attend a Big Eight Conference athletic directors meeting.

His 1964 team had a 6-3-1 record and his 1965 squad, a mark of 3-7. The season finale was a 17-16 loss to Oklahoma State last Saturday, the first time the Sooners had lost to Oklahoma State since 1955.

Cross said he foresaw no problem in Jones remaining as athletic director. He said, "He will be needed to organize the procurement of the new head coach."

Jones was given faculty tenure several years ago.

Gomer Favors Unknown Coach

Oklahoma City, Okla. (AP) — Gomer Jones said Monday he favors a new face for the football coaching job he relinquished at Oklahoma rather than any of the famous names previously associated with the university.

This statement indicates Jones, who is still OU's athletic director, would frown on appointment of such former Sooner greats as Darrell Royal, now head coach at Texas, and Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder.

It also would include Bud Wilkinson, the Oklahoma legend whom Jones assisted for 17 years before stepping into the top job last year.

Husker Home Opener Tonight

The second-winningest team in the United States invades the Coliseum tonight at 7:35 when Oregon State meets Nebraska in the Huskers' home opener.

The Beavers, who sported a record of 16-10 last season, are second only to Kentucky in total number of victories.

The Cornhuskers, fresh from a school scoring record in their 101-88 victory over Wisconsin, are trying for a berth in the Big Eight upper division and would certainly like to bolster their non-conference record before the home town crowd.

The win over Wisconsin marked the first time a Joe Cipriano coached team had won a road game in December, and the players should have incentive and confidence in their scoring ability.

The Beavers did not lose many players through graduation, but one of them was Jim Jarvis, the highest scoring guard in Pacific Northwestern history, and the man largely responsible for Oregon State's fine record last year.

Of the returning eight lettermen, four saw at least part-time starting duty last year. Ed Fredenberg, 6-6, 202-pound junior, was starting center, and Charlie White, 6-4, 189-pound senior, was the starting forward. Rick Whelan, 6-0, senior, and Scott Eaton, 6-3 both started numerous times.

"Oregon State will be similar to Wisconsin as they don't have a great offensive threat on the post," said Cipriano. "However, they always have had a balanced scoring attack and are noted for a great defense," he added.

Nebraska will use the same starting lineup that was successful in the Wisconsin game. The forwards will be 6-5 Tom Baack and 6-4 Nate Branch. Starting guards will be Grant Simmons, 6-3, who led Husker scoring against Wisconsin, and 6-3 sophomore Stuart Lantz. Willie Campbell, 6-5, 200-pounds, will again start at center.

Cipriano expressed pleasure with the overall scoring and team work in last week's victory at Madison, Wisc. "We will have to improve our defensive game, but we are looking forward to keep improving," he said.

Last year Oregon State ranked as one of the best defensive teams in the nation, and they likely will be tough again in this category. According to school officials what the Beavers need most is a leader and a shooter to replace Jarvis Petersen, the transfer, might fit the roll, but he's only a sophomore and has yet to prove himself.

Oregon State opened its season by beating Portland, 59-43, but lost its second game, 45-44, to Washington last Friday night.

Creighton Belts SoDak

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton University rolled to a 40-9 lead early in the first half and used its sophomores to sew up a 103-58 basketball victory over South Dakota University Monday night.

Creighton, winner now of three in a row, takes on potent Iowa University at Iowa Wednesday and returns home Thursday against another high-ranked foe, Bradley.

Coach Red McManus's team player without the services of star Neil Johnson, who was ill with the flu. High scorers, in the absense of Johnson, were Willie Boyce, a junior college transfer from Joliet, Ill., who finished with 24 points, and Tim Powers with 20. Three other Bluejays were in double figures.

Leading South Dakota were Mike Wilson with 13, Jack Theeler with 12, Carl Moehring with 11, and Mike Hyde with 10. Hyde, 6-9, was high man for both teams in rebounds with 10.

Creighton hit 69.5% from the field in the first half. For the game, Creighton was 48.5% from the field and 73.9% from the free throw line while South Dakota hit 42.4% from the field and 49% from the free throw line.

In the final half, Creighton held a 40-point edge much of the way, allowing McManus to make liberal use of his subs.

Pro Boxing Staging Comeback Says Pep

"Boxing has been revived in New York and a lot of other places since they stopped televising fights," Pep said at a news conference.

—HUTCHINGS, TOP HUSKER WRESTLER—

College Football Friendship Rewards Nebraska Coach

Borgialli, beginning his second year at the Husker helm, currently is grooming about 40 varsity and freshmen athletes for competition in the Great Plains Midwest AAU Wrestling Tournament at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln this weekend.

In 1963, Northeastern won the national junior college wrestling title, and Hutchings finished third at 157 pounds in the national meet to contribute to that victory.

Borgialli is happy to have him, even though Hutchings will be the first to admit that the competition at this level "is tougher so far."

Al, in fact, suffered the first pin of his eight-year career on the mat in Nebraska's opener against Omaha last week, going down before the Indians' Phil Goduta in 6:22.

"He was ahead, 4-0, and got pinned with a sucker pin," explains Borgialli. "But he's that kind of a free-lance wrestler. And if he only gets pinned once in eight years, I'll take that style anytime."

ALFRED HUTCHINGS

Hutchings is eagerly anticipating the Great Plains tournament, which will bring top wrestlers from all over the midwest to Pershing Friday and Saturday.

"It will give me a lot of good experience and will really help me get ready for the rest of the season," he says. "There will be a lot of good competition there."

Advance tickets for the Great Plains meet are on sale for $1 at Lawlor's, Gerry's, Russell Sports and the Colonial Inn. Tickets at the door Friday and Saturday will cost $1.50.

—BIRKEL SPORTS LARGE ADVANTAGE—

Pius X Returns Three Starters

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

In terms of returning manpower, Pius X basketball coach Lane Birkel has an advantage over the other Lincoln coaches in that he has three starters and three other lettermen back from last year's 14-3 outfit.

But the coach of the Thunderbolts is missing nearly half of his 1964-65 offensive punch as he prepares his club for Friday night's opener against Bellevue.

The major losses from last year are center Dayle Churchill, who led the Pius X club in scoring with a 21.1 average and guard Mick Johnson, whose 13.2 average was third best.

Bohaty averaged 18.9 points and Stephenson 11.6 last season. Both of the senior veterans are 6-1 and strong rebounders.

Bohaty and Stephenson, with letterman Kim Wheeler (6-0) in reserve, make forward the strongest position on the current club.

McEniry, a 6-0 senior, wasn't a heavy scorer last year, but is expected to contribute more in this department in his final season.

Birkel indicates that there is spirited competition for the other two starting spots.

Senior lettermen Dick Burke (6-0) and Jim McLaughlin (5-11) and transfer Kenny Donlan, a 5-8 senior, who lettered two years at Alvo-Eagle, are contesting for the spot vacated by Johnson.

"At times each has shown that he has the ability to start," says Birkel, who anticipates that depth will be adequate in the backcourt.

Each class contributes one candidate to fill the pivot position. Senior Dennis Keefe (6-5, 235) and junior John McLaughlin (6-2, 170) are up from the reserve team.

"He'll be a good one before he finishes," says Birkel, who hopes to be able to give the youngster plenty of opportunity to pick up much needed game experience as the season progresses.

McLaughlin has the inside track for the starting spot, but Birkel may employ a platoon system of sorts to make use of the height of Regelean and Keefe.

The Cornhuskers will not undergo any heavy work-outs until Dec. 14 when the team arrives in Phoenix, Ariz., for the pre-bowl game practice sessions

"We're not going to do any work here (Lincoln) other than conditioning," coach Bob Devaney said.

The practice sessions in Arizona will last for one week, with the team returning to Lincoln for Christmas and then leaving for Miami, Fla., on Dec. 26.

Basketball Leaps In

While many Nebraskans are still talking football and will be until after the New Year's Night battle between the Cornhuskers and Alabama, that other major collegiate sport has hit.

And in case you haven't noticed the early skirmishes of last week, the true sports fan should find it difficult to pass up this week's basketball offerings.

It starts with a chance to see whether the Huskers of coach Joe Cipriano can continue their hot shooting pace that set an NU record with 101 in the opener last week at Wisconsin.

Cipriano, who didn't give NU fans a look at what he calls an improved pressing defense against the frosh, likely will take the wraps off it tonight when the Scarlet and Cream cagers meet Oregon State at the NU Coliseum.

But the real basketball action this week will involve the Creighton Bluejays who go against a highly-rated Iowa team at Iowa City Wednesday, then return to Omaha's Civic Auditorium to test Bradley, ninth rated in the AP pre-season poll, Thursday night.

Iowa, under new coach Ralph Miller, handed national champion UCLA one of its two defeats last season and also defeated Creighton, 98-83.

The Hawkeyes have already made a bid to crack the national ratings along with Creighton. Creighton made its bid with an opening win over 10th ranked Kansas State.

Iowa moved toward recognition by stopping NCAA College Division champion Evansville, 80-73, after the little giants of college basketball had won 35 straight including eight wins last season over major college foes—one of them Iowa.

Bradley has defeated Wisconsin of Milwaukee, 104-68, and Northern Michigan, 90-78, to keep its spot in the top 10 ratings.

Take His Saddle Away

If your youngster is showing signs of leaving his golf clubs in the corner in favor of riding that horse you have out in the country, you might be doing him a favor by taking his saddle away from him.

The latest compilation of money won by professional athletes shows that Dean Oliver is the leading cowboy on the rodeo circuit with $31,392.

You have to go a long ways down the golf money list to find anyone making that small amount. In fact, in official earnings, the No. 10 man, Arnold Palmer, made nearly twice that much, picking up $57,770.

Jack Nicklaus led in official golf earnings with $140,752, nearly five times the earnings of Dean Oliver. And of course, golfers also have a more lucrative endorsement field.

How many sweaters do you suppose a rodeo cowboy could sell in a magazine advertisement?

Anteaters And Bug-Eaters

Nebraska fans in the past two years have had to endure War Eagle cries from Auburn fans and Whoo Pig Sooey from Arkansans, but if the Huskers ever schedule the newest branch of the University of California, the shout will be "Zot!"

A special student election was held to select a name for its athletic teams and 559 of the 998 students voting cast their ballot for The Anteaters.

Before you laugh, let us remind you that Nebraska teams once went by the name "Bug-Eaters."

The Anteaters was a natural since students on the Irvine, Calif., campus are used to yelling "Zot!" whenever their water polo team scores a goal. So why not "Zot!" for a touchdown.

Says UC at Irvine's athletic director Wayne Crawford, "Actually I'm not too much in favor of it. I'm skeptical about the name as a permanent thing.'

JONES QUITS AS OU COACH

. . . SCHOOL OFFICIALS SHOCKED

Norman, Okla. (AP)—Gomer Jones, who admitted he had a tiger by the tail when he took over as head football coach at the University of Oklahoma two years ago, resigned Monday after the Sooners' poorest record in modern history.

Jones, 51, who retained his job as athletic director, said, "I'm doing it for the good of the university and its football program.

"I just got tired of the criticism and of constantly reading and listening to all the untrue rumors concerning my position as head coach here."

The OU Board of Regents had just said that Jones four-year contract would be honored. University President George L. Cross expressed shock.

"It is a matter of regret to me," Dr. Cross said. "I think Gomer is a splendid coach and that he would have demonstrated this in the two years his contract still has to run. I had confidence in him.

GOMER JONES

"The play of his team in the last two games demonstrated this. This comes of his own volition. He and I have not discussed this possibility before. It's his own decision."

There was speculation that Darrell Royal, a Sooner star quarterback in the 40's and now head coach at Texas, and Charley Curtis, an assistant coach at Southern Methodist, were high on the list of possible successors.

Wilkinson, who quit in 1964 for an unsuccessful race for the U.S. Senate, was in nearby Oklahoma City Monday but could not be reached immediately for comment.

Wilkinson has let it be known that he would like to return to coaching. He is now head of Lifetime Sports, Inc., in Washington and has his own television football show NBC.

Jones flew to Kansas City, Mo. after the resignation was announced by the university. He was to attend a Big Eight Conference athletic directors meeting.

His 1964 team had a 6-3-1 record and his 1965 squad, a mark of 3-7. The season finale was a 17-16 loss to Oklahoma State last Saturday, the first time the Sooners had lost to Oklahoma State since 1955.

Cross said he foresaw no problem in Jones remaining as athletic director. He said, "He will be needed to organize the procurement of the new head coach."

Jones was given faculty tenure several years ago.

Gomer Favors Unknown Coach

Oklahoma City, Okla. (AP) — Gomer Jones said Monday he favors a new face for the football coaching job he relinquished at Oklahoma rather than any of the famous names previously associated with the university.

This statement indicates Jones, who is still OU's athletic director, would frown on appointment of such former Sooner greats as Darrell Royal, now head coach at Texas, and Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder.

—BEAVERS INVADE LINCOLN—

Husker Home Opener Tonight

The second-winningest team in the United States invades the Coliseum tonight at 7:35 when Oregon State meets Nebraska in the Huskers' home opener.

The Beavers, who sported a record of 16-10 last season, are second only to Kentucky in total number of victories.

The win over Wisconsin marked the first time a Joe Cipriano coached team had won a road game in December, and the players should have incentive and confidence in their scoring ability.

The Beavers did not lose many players through graduation, but one of them was Jim Jarvis, the highest scoring guard in Pacific Northwestern history, and the man largely responsible for Oregon State's fine record last year.

Of the returning eight lettermen, four saw at least part-time starting duty last year. Ed Fredenberg, 6-6, 202-pound junior, was starting center, and Charlie White, 6-4, 189-pound senior, was the starting forward. Rick Whelan, 6-0, senior, and Scott Eaton, 6-3, both started numerous times.

"Oregon State will be similar to Wisconsin as they don't have a great offensive threat on the post," said Cipriano. "However, they always have had a balanced scoring attack and are noted for a great defense," he added.

Nebraska will use the same starting lineup that was successful in the Wisconsin game. The forwards will be 6-5 Tom Baack and 6-4 Nate Branch. Starting guards will be Grant Simmons, 6-3, who led Husker scoring against Wisconsin, and 6-3 sophomore Stuart Lantz. Willie Campbell, 6 5, 200-pounds, will again start at center.

Cipriano expressed pleasure with the overall scoring and team work in last week's victory at Madison, Wisc. "We will have to improve our defensive game, but we are looking forward to keep improving," he said.

Last year Oregon State ranked as one of the best defensive teams in the nation, and they likely will be tough again in this category. According to school officials what the Beavers need most is a leader and a shooter to replace Jarvis.

Oregon State opened its season by beating Portland, 59-43, but lost its second game, 45-44, to Washington last Friday night.

Creighton Belts SoDak

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton University rolled to a 40-9 lead early in the first half and used its sophomores to sew up a 103-58 basketball victory over South Dakota University Monday night.

Coach Red McManus's team player without the services of star Neil Johnson, who was ill with the flu. High scorers, in the absense of Johnson, were Willie Boyce, a junior college transfer from Joliet, Ill., who finished with 24 points, and Tim Powers with 20. Three other Bluejays were in double figures.

Leading South Dakota were Mike Wilson with 13, Jack Theeler with 12, Carl Moehring with 11, and Mike Hyde with 10. Hyde, 6-9, was high man for both teams in rebounds with 10.

Creighton hit 69.5% from the field in the first half. For the game, Creighton was 48.5% from the field and 73.9% from the free throw line while South Dakota hit 42.4% from the field and 49% from the free throw line.

—BIRKEL SPORTS LARGE ADVANTAGE—

Pius X Returns Three Starters

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

In terms of returning manpower, Pius X basketball coach Lane Birkel has an advantage over the other Lincoln coaches in that he has three starters and three other lettermen back from last year's 14-3 outfit.

But the coach of the Thunderbolts is missing nearly half of his 1964-65 offensive punch as he prepares his club for Friday night's opener against Bellevue.

The major losses from last year are center Dayle Churchill, who led the Pius X club in scoring with a 21.1 average and guard Mick Johnson, whose 13.2 average was third best.

Bohaty averaged 18.9 points and Stephenson 11.6 last season. Both of the senior veterans are 6-1 and strong rebounders.

Birkel indicates that there is spirited competition for the other two starting spots.

Senior lettermen Dick Burke (6-0) and Jim McLaughlin (5-11) and transfer Kenny Donlan, a 5-8 senior, who lettered two years at Alvo-Eagle, are contesting for the spot vacated by Johnson.

"At times each has shown that he has the ability to start," says Birkel, who anticipates that depth will be adequate in the backcourt.

Each class contributes one candidate to fill the pivot position. Senior Dennis Keefe (6-5, 235) and junior John McLaughlin (6-2, 170) are up from the reserve team.

"He'll be a good one before he finishes," says Birkel, who hopes to be able to give the youngster plenty of opportunity to pick up much needed game experience as the season progresses.

McLaughlin has the inside track for the starting spot, but Birkel may employ a platoon system of sorts to make use of the height of Regelean and Keefe.

College Football Friendship Rewards Nebraska Coach

Borgialli, beginning his second year at the Husker helm, currently is grooming about 40 varsity and freshmen athletes for competition in the Great Plains Midwest AAU Wrestling Tournament at Pershing Auditorium in Lincoln this weekend.

In 1963, Northeastern won the national junior college wrestling title, and Hutchings finished third at 157 pounds in the national meet to contribute to that victory.

Borgialli is happy to have him, even though Hutchings will be the first to admit that the competition at this level "is tougher so far."

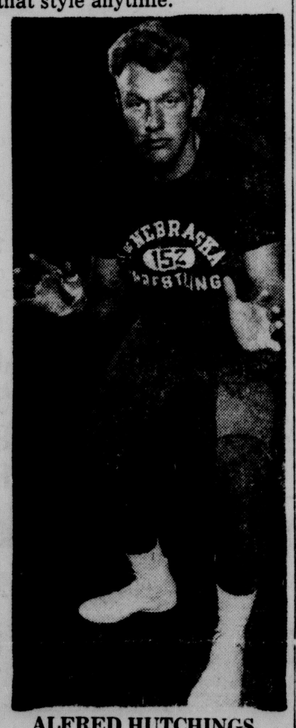

Al, in fact, suffered the first pin of his eight-year career on the mat in Nebraska's opener against Omaha last week, going down before the Indians' Phil Goduta in 6:22.

"He was ahead, 4-0, and got pinned with a sucker pin," explains Borgialli. "But he's that kind of a free-lance wrestler. And if he only gets pinned once in eight years, I'll take that style anytime."

Hutchings is eagerly anticipating the Great Plains tournament, which will bring top wrestlers from all over the midwest to Pershing Friday and Saturday.

"It will give me a lot of good experience and will really help me get ready for the rest of the season," he says. "There will be a lot of good competition there."

Advance tickets for the Great Plains meet are on sale for $1 at Lawlor's, Gerry's, Russell Sports and the Colonial Inn. Tickets at the door Friday and Saturday will cost $1.50.

Colorado Breezes Past Northwestern By 70-55

. . . WILDCAT FOULS HURT CHANCES

Boulder, Colo. (AP)—Unbeaten Colorado went on a 12-point spree midway in the second half, shook loose from Northwestern and breezed to its third straight basketball victory Monday night, 70-55

Bob Bauers of Colorado topped the scoring with 20 points Chuck Gardner had 15 for the Buffs. Northwestern's leader was Ron Kozlicki with 18

Colorado's Karl Tait did a fine guarding job on Dick Burns. Northwestern's top scorer, who made only 2 of 22 shots from the field. Burns ended up with seven points. He averaged 17 last year.

Colorado hit 40.6 per cent from the field and Northwestern 27.1. Colorado had the rebound edge 58-57.

New Mexico Wins Third Straight, 56-52, Over ISU

Ames, Iowa (AP)—Unbeaten New Mexico handed Iowa State its second straight basketball loss, 56-52, Monday night, in an intersectional game.

The Cyclones led early and it was tied 11 times, but were ahead only once in the second half, 32-30 on a goal-tending call.

The halftime score was knotted at 30-30

The Cyclones pulled within one point, 46-45, on a tip-in by Don Smith with 6:27 left. But a pair of field goals by Ben Monroe and a free throw by Mel Daniels put the Lobos lead at 47-45.

Ashe Interested In Turning Pro

Asked if he would accept a professional offer, Ashe said, "I would consider it."

"I started to reply, 'You bet' but I decided to be a little more conservative," the 22-year-old UCLA student said.

Philadelphia Trims Lakers In NBA Battle

Charleston, W. Va.—Rookie Billy Cunningham showed a hot shooting hand, and Philadelphia wove a tight defense as the 76ers trimmed the Los Angeles Lakers 116-107 Monday night in the first National Basketball Association game here in six years.

Wilt Chamberlain popped in 29 points as high man for the 76ers, but young Cunningham, a 22-year-old, 200-pouuder from North Carolina Univerfrom North Carolina University tallied 21 before fouling out with 4½ minutes left. Cunningham's one-handers from beyond the foul-line continually spurred the Philadelphia offensive.

A crowd of 5,800 packed the Civic Center to see the first of two NBA games to be played here this season. The 76ers appear here again in February against Detroit.

Phillies Trade Relief Pitcher To Baltimore

The Orioles have been shopping for bullpen strength because of the retirement of Harvey Haddix and the aging of relief specialists Stu Miller and Dick Hall.

In the 29-year-old Baldschun, Baltimore obtained a pitcher who has appeared in 333 games during the past five seasons, or at least 65 each year.

Baldschun posted his best record, 12-7, in 1962. In 1964, he saved 17 victories while appearing in 71 games. Last year he had a 5-8 record with six saves and a 3.82 earned run average. His career ERA is 3.16.

Brandt, obtained from the San Francisco Giants in a trade prior to the 1960 season, hit .297 for the Orioles in 1961 but otherwise never topped .255. The 31-year-old outfielder played only 96 games last season, batting .243 with eight homers and 24 runs batted in.

2nd Ranked Michigan Takes 107-70 Victory

The Wolverines, ranked No. 2, jumped to an early lead and never were headed. They led at the half 63-35.

Naval Coaching Assistant Named As New Pitt Mentor

. . . SUCCEEDS FIRED JOHN MICHELOSEN

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP)— Dave Hart, an assistant coach at Navy, was given a three-year contract Monday as head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Hart, 38, a native of Connellsville, Pa., succeeds John Michelosen who was fired Nov. 24 from his $30,000-a-year job after 11 seasons at Pitt. Michelosen has been offered another job at his alma mater.

Athletic Director Frank Carver said the Athletic Committee picked Hart because "he's aggressive and articulate."

Carver said Bud Wilkinson, former head coach at the University of Oklahoma and now a sportscaster, had been approached for the job but declined.

Others interviewde included Louis Cecconi, an assistant at Pitt; Jos McMullen, offensive line coach at Penn State; John Chickerneo, coach of High Park, Ill. High School and a host of college and high school coaches in Western Pennsylvania.

"I'm delighted at the opportunity to coach at such a fine institution," Hart said in a statement at Annapolis, Md., following the announcement.

He said Pitt "represents not only high standards of education but also football at the highest level of competition.

"I am grateful to those who had the confidence to place me in such a responsible position.

Capt. Alan R. Cameron director of Athletics at Navy, said he was "extremely pleased" that a Navy assistant had been named to the job.

Rumors that Michelosen would resign or be fired circulated for more than a week before Pitt closed out its dismal 3-7 season Nov. 20 by edging Penn State 30-27.

Michelson, captain of the Pitt team in 1937, took over as head coach at the end of the 1954 season. In 11 years his teams compiled a 56-49-7 record.

Often criticized for a cautious coaching style, he was publicly called on the carpet in 1964 by the then chancellor, Edward H. Litchfield, and told to being wide open football.

Hart, a 1951 graduate of St. Vincent, Pa., college, joined the Naval Academy coaching staff in 1964 after two years as an assistant at the University of Kentucky.

Before that he spent 11 years as head coach in Pennsylvania high schools. In eight years at Johnstown, Pa., High School his record was 63-12-3.

Hart, who holds a master's degree from Pitt, is married to the former Patti Furtney of Connellsville. They have three sons and a daughter.

BOWL BOUND TIGERS WORK ON KICKING

There also was some team work on both offense and defense.

Coach Dan Devine expressed concern about the condition of Russell Washington, his giant sophomore defensive end who missed the final two games of the season because of a knee injury.

Devine said the knee has not responded to treatment as well as he had hoped, and it now appears doubtful that Washington will be ready to play when the Tigers meet Florida in the bowl.

. . . WILDCAT FOULS HURT CHANCES

Boulder, Colo. (AP)—Unbeaten Colorado went on a 12-point spree midway in the second half, shook loose from Northwestern and breezed to its third straight basketball victory Monday night, 70-55.

That signaled the start of Colorado's rally.

Colorado hit 40.6 per cent from the field and Northwestern 27.1. Colorado had the rebound edge 58-57.

Philadelphia Trims Lakers In NBA Battle

Charleston, W. Va.—Rookie Billy Cunningham showed a hot shooting hand, and Philadelphia wove a tight defense as the 76ers trimmed the Los Angeles Lakers 116-107 Monday night in the first National Basketball Association game here in six years.

Wilt Chamberlain popped in 29 points as high man for the 76ers, but young Cunningham, a 22-year-old, 200-pouuder from North Carolina Univerfrom North Carolina University tallied 21 before fouling out with 4½ minutes left. Cunningham's one-handers from beyond the foul-line continually spurred the Philadelphia offensive.

A crowd of 5,800 packed the Civic Center to see the first of two NBA games to be played here this season. The 76ers appear here again in February against Detroit.

Stolen Peanuts, Hijacked Beer Cause Arrests

Cleveland, Ohio (AP) — Some sports fans at Cleveland Stadium have been washing down stolen peanuts with hijacked beer for an estimated five or six years, police said Monday.

They reported finding a cache of 39 cases of beer and eight cases of peanuts in a stadium coatroom used by vendors.

They said they believe the merchandise was stolen from Sports Services, Inc., of Buffalo, N.Y., concessionaire at the stadium and resold to vendors at about half the regular price.

Garrison Signed By Cowboys

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Walt Garrison, Oklahoma State University's All-Big Eight Conference fullback, signed Monday with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

It was announced Garrison signed for a substantial bonus and salary, but no figures were disclosed. Garrison was a fifth round draft choice of Dallas.

Garrison is a 21-year old, 5 foot 11, 205 pound senior from Lewisville, Tex. During his three years with Oklahoma State he rushed for 2,041 yards —third highest in the school's history.

Phillies Trade Relief Pitcher To Baltimore

The Orioles have been shopping for bullpen strength because of the retirement of Harvey Haddix and the aging of relief specialists Stu Miller and Dick Hall.

In the 29-year-old Baldschun, Baltimore obtained a pitcher who has appeared in 333 games during the past five seasons, or at least 65 each year.

Baldschun posted his best record, 12-7, in 1962. In 1964, he saved 17 victories while appearing in 71 games. Last year he had a 5-8 record with six saves and a 3.82 earned run average. His career ERA is 3.16.

Brandt, obtained from the San Francisco Giants in a trade prior to the 1960 season, hit .297 for the Orioles in 1961 but otherwise never topped .255. The 31-year-old outfielder played only 96 games last season, batting .243 with eight homers and 24 runs batted in.

2nd Ranked Michigan Takes 107-70 Victory

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—Michigan, employing a full court zone press, ran past Ball State 107-70 Monday night for its third straight basketball victory.

The Wolverines, ranked No. 2, jumped to an early lead and never were headed. They led at the half 63-35.

NAMATH UNFIT FOR MILITARY; CLASSIFIED 4-F

Beaver Falls, Pa. (AP)—Quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets has been classified 4-F by local Draft Board 24, it was learned Monday.

USC's Garrett Named Winner Of Voit Award

Los Angeles (AP) — Honors continue to pour in on football star Mike Garrett of the University of Southern California.

By landslide vote, the rugged little halfback won the 15th annual W. J. Voit Memorial Award, presented each year to "the outstanding football player on the Pacific Coast."

Garrett, All-America and Heisman Trophy winner, received 27 of 33 first place ballots. His closest rival, with five first place votes, was sophomore quarterback Gary Beban of UCLA.

Naval Coaching Assistant Named As New Pitt Mentor

. . . SUCCEEDS FIRED JOHN MICHELOSEN

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP)— Dave Hart, an assistant coach at Navy, was given a three-year contract Monday as head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh. Salary terms were not disclosed.

Hart, 38, a native of Connellsville, Pa., succeeds John Michelosen who was fired Nov. 24 from his $30,000-a-year job after 11 seasons at Pitt. Michelosen has been offered another job at his alma mater.

Athletic Director Frank Carver said the Athletic Committee picked Hart because "he's aggressive and articulate."

Carver said Hart would be given a free reign to select his assistants. The new coach was not present at the announcement.

Carver said Bud Wilkinson, former head coach at the University of Oklahoma and now a sportscaster, had been approached for the job but declined.

Others interviewde included Louis Cecconi, an assistant at Pitt; Jos McMullen, offensive line coach at Penn State; John Chickerneo, coach of High Park, Ill. High School and a host of college and high school coaches in Western Pennsylvania.

"I'm delighted at the opportunity to coach at such a fine institution," Hart said in a statement at Annapolis, Md., following the announcement.

He said Pitt "represents not only high standards of education but also football at the highest level of competition.

"I am grateful to those who had the confidence to place me in such a responsible position.

"I approach this challenge with humility, enthusiasm and dedication."

Capt. Alan R. Cameron director of Athletics at Navy, said he was "extremely pleased" that a Navy assistant had been named to the job.

Rumors that Michelosen would resign or be fired circulated for more than a week before Pitt closed out its dismal 3-7 season Nov. 20 by edging Penn State 30-27.

Michelson, captain of the Pitt team in 1937, took over as head coach at the end of the 1954 season. In 11 years his teams compiled a 56-49-7 record.

Often criticized for a cautious coaching style, he was publicly called on the carpet in 1964 by the then chancellor, Edward H. Litchfield, and told to being wide open football.

Hart, a 1951 graduate of St. Vincent, Pa., college, joined the Naval Academy coaching staff in 1964 after two years as an assistant at the University of Kentucky.

Before that he spent 11 years as head coach in Pennsylvania high schools. In eight years at Johnstown, Pa., High School his record was 63-12-3.

Hart, who holds a master's degree from Pitt, is married to the former Patti Furtney of Connellsville. They have three sons and a daughter.

BOWL BOUND TIGERS WORK ON KICKING

There also was some team work on both offense and defense.

Coach Dan Devine expressed concern about the condition of Russell Washington, his giant sophomore defensive end who missed the final two games of the season because of a knee injury.

Devine said the knee has not responded to treatment as well as he had hoped, and it now appears doubtful that Washington will be ready to play when the Tigers meet Florida in the bowl.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

We've been writing a piece for California wine people these rainy days. (Between running out to see if the tree has blown down yet.)

One of the best things we've brought from LaBelle France is a grapey organization called La Confrerie des Chevaliers du Tastevins — the Knights of Wine-Tasting.

I am a Knight myself—though I can't remember much about how I got in. It was one of those evenings.

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, I am a Knight. "A verray parfit gentil Knight" as Chaucer put it, there being no copyreaders in those parfit days.

As a Knight, I do not pay ordinary dues. I pay "cotisation." (They let me use real money, though.)

I may wear a Knightly ribbon in my buttonhole. (The one they sell you sewed up and you have to slit it with a razor blade.)

I get a silver wine taster's cup.

This gives me plenty of grape juice with the headwaiter. He must pull the cork carefully not to disturb the wine. Wine is more easily disturbed than a Peace Day marcher.

All Knights know these things. We know which wines will "travel" and which ones won't. If a wine won't travel, we travel to it.

When we Knights order wine, it is a holy ceremony. We consult the wine list. We consult the headwaiter.

"How about this Dewlips '49, Gadfly? Has it passed its prime?"

"Just reached its maturity if I may say so sir," says Gadfly. "A half bottle, sir?"

"Bring the whole bottle, Gadfly. What I don't drink, I'll take home to the dog."

About every month or so, we have a Knightly dinner. The nudge is about $50.

It's worth every penny of it. We keep the prices high or all kinds of varlets would be getting in. Like people who drink the old red out of screwcap bottles.

As anyone can see, there are many advantages to the Knight business.

How do you become a Knight? Well, you must be put up for membership by another Knight.

It's a stylish organization. We are devoted to the wines of Burgundy. And in our founding year of 1200, several Knights fought duels with a couple of winos who preferred the pressings of Bordeaux.

One thing I should tell you: You cannot smoke during our dinners. It destroys the palate—you have no taste for the $50 goodies. We don't want a bunch of no-tasters in our taster group.

When you are a member, you must make a little speech on the glories of wine. I chose as my speech:

"There's no cure 'gainst age but it;

"And is for all diseases physic."

Desegregation Is Speeded By Court

From Press Reports

Washington—The Supreme Court, pressing again for speedy compliance with its 1954 school desegrgation decision, moved Monday against a grade-a-year mixing plan in Fort Smith, Ark.

The court ordered local authorities to allow a group of Negro students to transfer immediately to white high schools which have been kept segregated under the community's desegregation plan.

The opinion noted that although the Arkansas community adopted the grade-a-year plan in 1957, the high school students still are segregated.

Immediate Relief

"Petitioners are entitled to immediate relief," it declared, "We have emphasized that 'delays in desegregating public school systems are no longer tolerable.' "

The unsigned opinion said other Negro students as well should be allowed to transfer because the white school "has the more extensive curriculum . . . from which they are excluded because of their race."

The lawsuit was initiated in 1963 by Mrs. Corine Rogers, who unsuccessfully tried to transfer her two daughters from the Negro to the white high schools. One of the daughters now has been graduated.

—Agreed to review a California Supreme Court decision that threw out the conviction and death sentence of Roy Allen Stewart of Los Angeles because police did not advise him of his right to counsel before taking his confession.

Escobedo Decision

By reviewing the case the court gives itself another chance to amplify its 1964 Escobedo decision that extended the right to counsel to suspects in a police station.

—Agreed to decide two cases involving the constitutional issue of freedom of the press. One case involved an appeal by Birmingham, Ala., editor James E. Mill who was prosecuted under a state anti-election law for making voting recommendations in an editorial printed on a 1962 election day. The other involved a $30,000 judgment against Time, Inc., obtained under New York's right of privacy law.

—Decided to review the contempt of Congress conviction of John T. Gojack, who as an officer of the United Electrical Workers Union refused to answer questions asked by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Refuses Negro Case

—Refused a hearing to Robert Swain, an Alabama Negro who claimed he was wrongly convicted and sentenced to death for rape because Negroes are systematically excluded from juries in the state.

—Turned down a challenge of South Carolina's Sunday closing law brought by a Charleston shopkeeper who said it infringed on the religious freedom of Jewish store owners.

—Reversed a 1959 ruling limiting the contempt powers of a federal judge against a witness who refuses to accept immunity from prosecution if he replies to grand jury questioning. The court held Monday that such a witness cannot be summarily found guilty of contempt unless the dignity of the court is affronted. Otherwise, the witness can ask for a hearing, the Supreme Court ruled in its 5-4 decision.

FPC Wants To Regulate Interstate Power Networks

Johnson City, Tex (AP) — Chairman Joseph C. Swidler told President Johnson Monday the Federal Power Commission soon will recommend legislation giving the FPC the right to regulate interstate power networks.

Swidler was called to the LBJ Ranch to discuss with Johnson the commission's report and recommendations. The FPC chairman stressed that the investigation is continuing.

Recommendations

The President said when the recommendations are made, he will examine them and decide what legislation, if any, will be sought from Congress

The Federal Power Act of 1935 gives the FPC jurisdiction over accounting and rates of interstate power networks, but not over service.

Swidler was asked whether, if all the commission's regulations are carried out, another blackout of such magnitude as that in the Northeast could happen.

He did not flatly rule out such a possibility, but said he knows no reason why there should be a recurrence.

Some In Effect

Johnson, who ordered the investigation, said in a statement that many of the commission's recommendations already are being implemented by the power companies.

"This effort must be continued until we have so perfected our power systems that widespread power failures will be not only improbable, but impossible," he said.

The commission noted the enormous development of interstate power networks in the last 30 years and said it is impossible for a single state to regulate effectively the service from such a pool.

Big Runoff Majority Tough For De Gaulle

By RODNEY ANGOVE

Paris (AP)—Charles de Gaulle faces a tough political test in the presidential runoff if he is to win with a telling majority.

An analysis Monday of the results of Sunday's presidential election, which turned out to be a primary, indicated De Gaulle will be lucky to win 52 or 53% of the votes in the runoff Dec. 19. He will face leftist Francois Mitterrand, the runnerup Sunday.

To make a good showing Dec. 19, De Gaulle must take a big share of the 3¾ million votes that went to the third man, Jean Lecanuet.

In the first round of balloting, De Gaulle had to settle for 44.61% of the popular vote, a letdown from the polling in 1962, which gave him 62.8%

Also-Ran Votes

Mitterrand got 31.72% and has a good chance of collecting many of the votes scattered among four also-rans who won't be in the runoff.

The analysis of Sunday's vote raised the question whether De Gaulle would risk damaging his pride by failing in the second round to win with a sizable majority.

Some aides had said he would rather quit than enter the runoff, but top Gaullists were reported as saying Monday they were sure he will stand and fight.

France Soir reporter Eugene Mannoni told of a telephone conversation between De Gaulle and Premier Georges Pompidou that seemed to confirm the Gaullists' opinion.

He said Pompidou telephoned De Gaulle to read a proposed statement saying the "candidates of diversion have prevented the demonstration of national unity that he (De Gaulle) had expected."

De Gaulle reportedly interrupted and said "deferred—not prevented."

If he retires it would amount to a possible surrender to the leftists, and De Gaulle would probably be the last person to do that.

Thus the battle will be largely for the votes that went to Lecanuet. Supporters of this 45-year-old "French Kennedy," as backers call him, appear to be mixed in their views on communism, hence their preference for De Gaulle or Mitterrand.

Red Opposition

Many Lecanuet supporters were middle-class Christian Centrists opposed to a "popular front" of communist and noncommunist leftist groups behind Mitterrand. But others are intellectuals, students and labor leaders who may more strongly oppose De Gaulle on other issues.

De Gaulle needs at least 1.3 million of Lecanuet's votes, considering that all the rest of the also-ran votes were basically anti-De Gaulle rather than pro-someone and will go to Mitterrand.

Only De Gaulle will decide, and there was no word from his home at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises. But he did call his usual cabinet meeting for Wednesday, at which time he may announce his decision. He has until midnight Thursday to decide.

Brezhnev Chopping Rival's Power

Moscow (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev appeared Monday to have chopped down the power of the man widely regarded as his possible successor to top authority in the Soviet Union, Alexander N. Shelepin.

Brezhnev proposed, and the Community Party Central Committee adopted, a plan that seemed to reduce the importance of Shelepin's main job. Brief official accounts gave no indication that Shelepin was even heard at the committee meeting.

At the same time, the committee promoted into the party top command two men whose careers linked them with Brezhnev, who as first secretary of the Communist Party occupies the most powerful position in the U.S.S.R. The two are Ivan V. Kapitonov, 50, who becomes a member of the Central Committee's Secretariat, and Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky, 47, who is named a candidate member of the ruling party Presidium.

The commission has a dual role checking closely on the intertwined workings of party and government. It gave Shelepin, a former head of the Soviet secret police, a virtually independent pipeline to key spots around the country and influence in virtually every phase of Soviet life.

Shelepin is a deputy premier, a member of the ruling party Presidium and a party secretary. Only he, Brezhnev, Nikolai V. Podgorny and Mikhail A. Suslov hold posts simultaneously on both Presidium and Secretariat.

Brezhnev told the Central Committee the party and state control title hid the fact that control was "people's control," and it would thus be more correct "to reorganize these organs and name them organs of people's control," the official news agency Tass reported.

Candidate's Civil Rights Argued

Is a person convicted of a felony and placed on probation early in life forever prevented from holding public office unless he petitions for restoration of his civil rights? Opposing attorneys argued on both sides of that question Monday before State Supreme Court judges in connection with the 1962 Pawnee County clerk election.

B. F. Muscheites, the Democratic incumbent, defeated Delmar Stulp, the Republican challenger, by 27 votes, but Stulp filed a lawsuit contending numerous irregularities in the balloting.

Muscheites in turn noted that Stulp was placed on probation as a 17-year-old boy in 1935 after pleading guilty to a grand larceny charge and had never filed a petition for restoration of civil rights. Therefore, Muscheites argued, Stulp was not eligible to serve as county clerk.

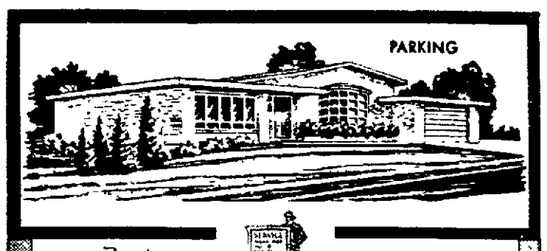

Pawnee District Judge Joseph Ach ruled in favor of Muscheites, and Stulp appeal to the Supreme Court.

Lincoln attorney Richard H. Hansen, representing Stulp, said it would be a "miscarriage of justice to the highest degree" and "an unfair penalty," to rule that Stulp was not eligible for the post.

He said Stulp's probation in 1935, 1936 and 1937 in effect suspended a sentence against the youth and "postponed indefinitely the disqualification of his right to serve public office."

Attorney Dwight Griffiths of Auburn, representing Muscheites, said Stulp clearly was convicted of a felony and stripped of his civil rights in accordance with law.

Only a special petition could restore those rights, he said.

University Student's Family Loses Clothes In Home Blaze

The blaze was discovered about noon in a closet at the back of the house at 1809 G occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Hardy and their children, Karen, 6; Dallas, 4, and Danny 2.

Hardy has been in Lincoln attending school for the last four months. He moved his family to Lincoln from Litchfield a month ago.

The house was damaged considerably, according to the Fire Department

Mass Murder Trial

Bombay, India (AP)—A judge in Mysore state has sentenced 12 persons to death for their part in cornering 20 persons in a house and then setting it afire during a village feud last February. A total of 48 persons was accused of the mass murders in Indapur, 500 miles east of Bombay. The judge acquitted 14 and sentenced the other 22 to life in prison.

Morrison Attending Texas Conference

Gov. Frank Morrison Monday flew to the Interstate Oil Compact Commission's annual meeting in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Pope Appeal Deadline Is Now Dec. 13

Omaha (AP)—The deadline for filing motions for a new trial in the conviction of Duane Pope for the Big Springs, Neb., bank robbery killings has been extended to Dec. 13, U.S. Atty. Theodore Richling said Monday.

Originally a five-day period was allowed for the filing of such motions, Richling explained, but the law provides that an extension of an additional five days is possible if the application for extension is made before the five-day period is up.

Defense attorneys applied Monday for the five-day extension and Judge Robert Van Pelt, the presiding judge, granted it, Richling said.

State Definition Of Academic Freedom Asked

North Platte Sen. Cecil Craft Monday asked the State Normal Board to supply him with its definition of "academic freedom as practiced in our state colleges."

In a letter to Normal Board Coordinator F. B. Decker, Sen Craft said he supports academic freedom if it means professors have a right to explore all theories dealing with a particular subject.

But, he continued, "if academic freedom means the right of every 'kook' professor who might appear before a college class to espouse his own particular brand of political beliefs to that class, then the situation is quite different."

Sen. Craft said money appropriated to the state colleges is "primarily for the development of the intellect of students and not for political indoctrination.

Sen. Craft said the letter was prompted by resolutions passed by the Nebraska conference of the American Association of University Professors which charged there is a lack of academic freedom on the campuses at Kearney, Wayne, Chadron and Peru state colleges.

Russia, U.S. Set Disarm Talks Jan. 18

London (UPI)—The Soviet Union and the United States have set Jan. 18 as the date for resumption of the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva, British diplomatic sources said Monday.

The sources said Britain has agreed to the date and most neutral members of the conference are expected also to agree. The talks were recessed last fall so that delegates could attend the meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

Topping the agenda will be the vital issue of an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons which both the United States and Britain want to conclude as soon as possible.

In London, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, reporting to Parliament on his Moscow visit last week, said he agreed with Soviet leaders that "despite our differences of view, discussions on the text of a nondissemination treaty should be pursued."

The differences involve the problem of including West Germany in allied nuclear strategy planning. The Russians have opposed any measure which would give the Bonn government "access" to the deterrent, without spelling out their objections in detail.

But discussions in Geneva may throw fresh light on just what Moscow intends to do. There have been suggestions that the Russians might "swallow" the American-proposed nuclear consultative committee in NATO on which West Germany would sit. It would mean West Germany will participate in allied nuclear policy and planning without getting a finger on the actual nuclear trigger.

The issue will be discussed in the Dec. 17 meeting between Prime Minister Harold Wilson and President Johnson, at Johnson's ranch in Texas. These talks will be followed by a meeting between Johnson and West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, also on the Texas ranch, Dec. 19.

Lincoln Man, Missing Two Years, Is Found Dead In New Mexico

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The body of a Lincoln man who had been missing for about two years was found recently on a country road about six miles outside the village of Rodeo, N.M.

He was Willis Rae Baldwin, 44, the father of eight.

Cause of death has tentatively been blamed on a hit and run driver, according to a New Mexico sheriff. The accident is believed to have happened Aug. 24, 1965.

Mysterious

A sister of the dead man received an anonymous phone call from "somewhere in New Mexico." The caller told the Lincoln sister that her brother had "been killed near Rodeo, N.M." The caller refused to identify himself or give any other information.

The sister thought the call probably from a prankster but contacted Lincoln police nevertheless in the hope of learning something about the whereabouts of the missing brother.

Research by Lincoln police finally confirmed that the dead man in New Mexico was the missing Lincolnite. New Mexico authorities apparently were not aware of the fact that Baldwin had relatives in Lincoln and therefore failed to notify them.

Baldwin was a World War II veteran. He participated in the Normandy invasion and served with Gen. George Patton in Patton's campaign across North Africa. Following the war, Baldwin spent considerable time at the Veteran's Hospital in Lincoln recovering from injuries.

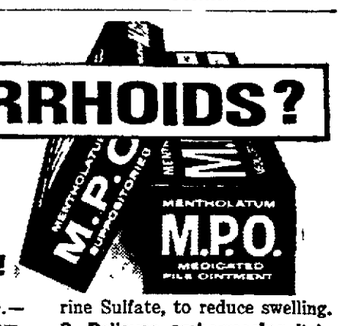

Relatives indicated they plan further investigation into the death and the circumstances surrounding it.

4 Named To Board

Hastings — William Laird, James Hansen, William Cambridge and C. J. Hargleroad were elected to three-year terms on the board of directors of the Hastings Chamber of Commerce.

HEMORRHOIDS?

In clinical tests of new M.P.O.—an advanced treatment for hemorrhoids (piles)—doctors reported "results were good to excellent" for 5 out of every 6 patients! M.P.O. works five ways for faster, longer-lasting relief:

1. Helps ease pain faster. You get more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients, including Benzocaine, than in the preparation you may now be using.

2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M.P.O. quickly releases the even vaso-constrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate, to reduce swelling.

4. Gives longer relief. A more temperature-stable base holds medication in place, prolongs relief-bringing action.

5. Fights danger of infection. Proven germ-killer Hexachlorophene combats bacteria.

Russia, U.S. Set Disarm Talks Jan. 18

London (UPI)—The Soviet Union and the United States have set Jan. 18 as the date for resumption of the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva, British diplomatic sources said Monday.

The sources said Britain has agreed to the date and most neutral members of the conference are expected also to agree. The talks were recessed last fall so that delegates could attend the meeting of the United Nations General Assembly.

Topping the agenda will be the vital issue of an agreement to halt the spread of nuclear weapons which both the United States and Britain want to conclude as soon as possible.

In London, Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, reporting to Parliament on his Moscow visit last week, said he agreed with Soviet leaders that "despite our differences of view, discussions on the text of a nondissemination treaty should be pursued."

The differences involve the problem of including West Germany in allied nuclear strategy planning. The Russians have opposed any measure which would give the Bonn government "access" to the deterrent, without spelling out their objections in detail.

But discussions in Geneva may throw fresh light on just what Moscow intends to do. There have been suggestions that the Russians might "swallow" the American-proposed nuclear consultative committee in NATO on which West Germany would sit. It would mean West Germany will participate in allied nuclear policy and planning without getting a finger on the actual nuclear trigger.

The issue will be discussed in the Dec. 17 meeting between Prime Minister Harold Wilson and President Johnson, at Johnson's ranch in Texas. These talks will be followed by a meeting between Johnson and West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, also on the Texas ranch, Dec. 19.

Lincoln Man, Missing Two Years, Is Found Dead In New Mexico

By JOHN DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

The body of a Lincoln man who had been missing for about two years was found recently on a country road about six miles outside the village of Rodeo, N.M.

He was Willis Rae Baldwin, 44, the father of eight.

Cause of death has tentatively been blamed on a hit and run driver, according to a New Mexico sheriff. The accident is believed to have happened Aug. 24, 1965.

Mysterious

Lincoln relatives learned of the death in a mysterious way.

A sister of the dead man received an anonymous phone call from "somewhere in New Mexico." The caller told the Lincoln sister that her brother had "been killed near Rodeo, N.M." The caller refused to identify himself or give any other information.

The sister thought the call probably from a prankster but contacted Lincoln police nevertheless in the hope of learning something about the whereabouts of the missing brother.

Research by Lincoln police finally confirmed that the dead man in New Mexico was the missing Lincolnite. New Mexico authorities apparently were not aware of the fact that Baldwin had relatives in Lincoln and therefore failed to notify them.

Baldwin was a World War II veteran. He participated in the Normandy invasion and served with Gen. George Patton in Patton's campaign across North Africa. Following the war, Baldwin spent considerable time at the Veteran's Hospital in Lincoln recovering from injuries.

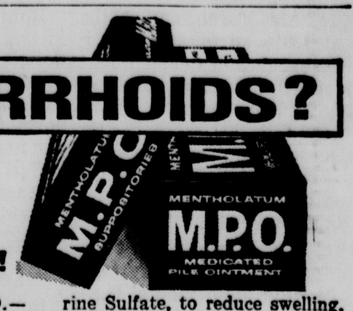

Relatives indicated they plan further investigation into the death and the circumstances surrounding it.

4 Named To Board

Minuteman II Test Complete Success

Washington (AP) — The Air Force announced Monday night a 100% successful test of its newest weapons system, the Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missile.

The announcement from Andrews Air Force base in nearby Maryland said the missile was launched at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California recently and hit right on target more than 5,000 miles downrange in the Eniwetok Lagoon. It did not specify the date.

The Air Force called the flight 100% successful with all research and development objectives achieved. The reentry vehicle reached a height of more than 400,000 feet in its trajectory, the Air Force said, and reached a maximum speed of 15,000 miles an hour on its downward track.

The Air Force said the Minuteman II weapon system will become the principal U.S. deterrent weapon when it is turned over in operational status to the Strategic Air Command.

Over-all plans have called for 1,000 missliesin the U.S. Minuteman force. This would include 800 Minuteman I missiles to be replaced by the improved version. The latter has been described as having a range of more than 9,000 miles, twice the accuracy and 30% more of a warhead than the Minuteman I.

Minuteman II Test Complete Success

Washington (AP) — The Air Force announced Monday night a 100% successful test of its newest weapons system, the Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missile.

The announcement from Andrews Air Force base in nearby Maryland said the missile was launched at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California recently and hit right on target more than 5,000 miles downrange in the Eniwetok Lagoon. It did not specify the date.

The Air Force called the flight 100% successful with all research and development objectives achieved. The reentry vehicle reached a height of more than 400,000 feet in its trajectory, the Air Force said, and reached a maximum speed of 15,000 miles an hour on its downward track.

The Air Force said the Minuteman II weapon system will become the principal U.S. deterrent weapon when it is turned over in operational status to the Strategic Air Command.

Over-all plans have called for 1,000 missliesin the U.S. Minuteman force. This would include 800 Minuteman I missiles to be replaced by the improved version. The latter has been described as having a range of more than 9,000 miles, twice the accuracy and 30% more of a warhead than the Minuteman I.

Sex Can't Be Basis For Hiring

State Labor Commissioner Lambert Eitel said he will issue an order soon reminding employment division officers across the state there no longer can be job discrimination because of sex in Nebraska.

The order will be issued in accordance with the new federal civil rights act.

Eitel said the local employment offices will be directed to reject job offers from persons or firms that specify race, color, religion, national origin or sex in their requirements.

"There are quite a few instances in Nebraska where women are paid less than men for equal work," Eitel said.

Eitel said local employment officers may use discretion in recommending persons for certain jobs.

"We wouldn't send a man to the YWCA for certain jobs," he said.

Revenue this year through November totals $4.857,596, a gain of $548,993 over the same period in 1964.

Services Planned For Fred Harper

Services will be Tuesday for Fred Harper, 77, former owner and operator of the Harper Dog and Pony Show, who died Saturday.

Mr. Harper and his troop of animals entertained throughout Iowa and Nebraska for nearly 20 years until 1941 when he suffered a stroke. Since that time, he has lived at home with his wife in Bennet.

Services are being held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Bennet Community Church.
